Dems Nominate Mullany for Family Court Judge

BY LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

William C. Mullany, Kingston lawyer, received the Democratic nomination for Family Court Judge Tuesday night saying he will conduct a "real, live, interesting campaign" in which he will convey to the public the principles he believes in and his ideas concerning the judgeship.

The reconvened Democratic convention was called hurriedly in order to comply with election law filing dates for nominations for Family Court Judge and only a handful (23) of Democrats turned out. The vote was unanimous.

Mullany was nominated by prominent Kingston lawyer N. Jansen Fowler who said he felt both political parties have a unique opportunity and obligation to elect two Family Court Judges for Ulster County this November.

The incumbent Republican Judge Hugh R. Elwyn is seeking reelection unopposed, and Tuesday night the Democrats fielded Mullany to oppose Republican Bernard Feeney Jr. for the recently created second Family Court Judgeship.

Fowler called for a candidate who is a man of deep social concern, interested in youth and in the family unit . . . a man of understanding.

In nominating Mullany, he stressed that the candidate must be a man of compassion, of respect and of broad legal experience. The pressures of the Family Court are manifold, he said, and the judge of that court must be a man of energy, of desire, a man with a certain amount of youth, a certain amount of experience and a man enmeshed in family life and children.

The nomination was seconded by County Legislator Louis Klein (D-Dist. 7) who said few judges are blessed with the temperament and ability of Mullany. City Democratic Chairman Lawrence Woerner also seconded Mullany's nomination.

Mrs. Florence Klein served as secretary of the convention which was also attended by former Mayor Raymond Garaghan and former Democratic Assembly candidate Maurice Hinchey Jr.

In addressing the convention held in the Ulster County Court House, Mullany emphasized that the judgeship race is "not a popularity contest." He said that if a candidate is sincere, and does not underestimate people, then the people will listen and be persuaded.

He said the only problem he anticipates will be a physical one—one getting around the county and meeting and speaking to the people.

"I want to talk to people and let them know how I can best serve them," he said, asking Democratic committeemen to help him get acquainted with the voters.

Mullany, who announced his candidacy for the nomination Sunday, is a resident of Elmendorf Heights, Town of Ulster.

A resident of the area since 1966, he was in partnership with Thomas Saccoman until 1970. Since then he has maintained his own office at 48 Main Street.

He attended Manhattan School of Engineering and received his BA degree from St. John's College in Brooklyn. He received his JD degree from St. John's School of Law.

Mullany was associated with the firm of Ryder and Costello in 1958-59 and was estate tax attorney for Putnam County. From 1960-1966, he was staff counsel for the Hartford Insurance Group, Hartford, Conn. While in Kingston, his practice has consisted primarily of trial work and litigation with emphasis on matrimonial and Family Court cases.

Levels Attack on Attorney General, Aides

Agnew Scores Enemies in Administration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew believes his enemies are within the administration he serves and he has struck back to silence them.

He accused Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson and U.S. Attorney George Beall Tuesday of violating their "legal duty" to prevent news leaks.

These, he asserted, have been designed to influence the grand jury which is investigating allegations that he accepted payoffs and kickbacks from consulting engineers doing business with Maryland while he served as Baltimore county executive, governor and even vice president.

Beall denied his staff was the source of the leaks. Richardson deplored them, too, and said he was investigating, as Agnew asked, and would discipline any employee found to be the source of the "unfair and inaccurate publicity." Through a spokesman, President Nixon also decried the news leaks.

The strength of Agnew's attack supported speculation that he sees himself as the target of a personal vendetta directed by some within the administration.

He made his charges at an eight-minute appearance before reporters and television cameras in the same Executive Office Building auditorium where two weeks ago he denounced as "damned lies" the allegations against him.

Agnew was stung by a Time magazine story which quoted an unnamed Justice Department official as saying "the department has no choice" but to seek an indictment against him because "at least three witnesses have told of delivering cash payoffs to Agnew."

Related administration stories on Page 5.

"I can only assume from this account that some Justice Department officials have decided to indict me in the press whether or not the evidence supports their position," Agnew said.

"This is a clear and outrageous effort to influence the outcome of possible grand jury deliberations."

So far, according to the prosecutors, the grand jury has heard only from Internal Revenue Service officials—not from any Maryland contractors. Beall indicated Tuesday the "Agnew phase" of the investigation would not be presented to the panel until after Labor Day.

Agnew refused to accept questions from reporters. This left in the air the key question about his defense: whether he will use the argument that the Constitution immunizes him from indictment unless he is first impeached and removed from office.

The vice president reassured his innocence, his determination to fight the charges against him and his refusal to resign.

He attacked Beall for commenting Monday that a meeting between Agnew and the prosecutors "would be desirable from his (Agnew's) standpoint. I can't say if the government sees it as desirable."

Replied Agnew: "I suppose that, if he wants to hear only one side of the story, that is up to him. I will say only that it seems to me a very strange way to run an investigation."

But Beall said he had merely not decided whether to accept and how to respond to Agnew's offer last week to submit to a meeting.

Catskills' Future Studied

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON — Preservation of Ulster County's wilderness areas — and increased respect for this region's environmental integrity — were the dominant issues raised Tuesday night at a meeting between local town and county officials and members of the Temporary State Commission to Study the Catskills.

Tuesday's meeting marked the commission's initial exposure in Ulster County. Three commission members — chairman Kirby Peake, Harold Finckle of Kingston and Israel Slutsky of Hunter — attended the meeting at the Ulster County office building, along with some 40 town supervisors, planning board members, county officials, ecologists and sportsmen.

The purpose of the meeting was to give the commission some idea just what Ulster County wants the group to consider in its broad-based study of the future of the Catskill region. Among the issues cited were zoning, atomic power plants, sewage disposal, Stewart Airport, recreation, water supplies, transportation and farming.

Herbert Hekler, director of the Ulster County Planning Board, was the first to address the commission Tuesday night and he immediately voiced "despair" over the "exploitation" of the Catskill region "that is occurring now." He termed the "shoddy summer homes" and ill-placed trailer parks that now dot the area "a disgrace and travesty on our forest preserve," and he urged the commission to recommend controls that would prevent future "degradation" of the area.

Hekler also suggested that the commission oppose rigid regulations that deny the public access to public lands. He referred specifically to the recent closing of the sole road leading to Overlook Mountain in Woodstock and added, "It's disgraceful that people own the mountains, but cannot use them."

William Ginsberg, representing the Catskill Center for Conservation and Development, said the commission should address itself to two primary issues: enhancement of the economic viability of farms and farmlands in the western Catskills and regional land use controls that would "protect the streams, mountains and hamlets of the Catskills."

Fred Faerber, president of the Ulster County Federated Sportsmen's Clubs, suggested that the definitions covering "wild" and "scenic" rivers should be changed to conform to the uniqueness of the Catskill area. He also decried the proposed expansion of Stewart Jetport, urged additional agricultural districts that would help maintain wildlife habitats, and proposed that ice fishing be permitted on city-owned reservoirs in the region.

Katherine Wagenfahr, representing the Ulster County Environmental Management Council, proposed state funding for rural sewage treatment plants ("It's not any cleaner than urban waste," she said.) and suggested that the commission consider a "total stream concept" in its studies, maintaining that occurrences upstream can influence the environment of communities downstream.

Referring specifically to Route 209, she also said that, rather than build new roads, our existing scenic highways should be preserved, but that traffic flow (and the size of trucks) should be controlled.

And, Mrs. Wagenfahr told the commission that the impact of proposed atomic power plants are of "utmost importance" to the Ulster County area.

Establishment of an operative railroad following the path of the dying Catskill Mountain Branch line between Kingston and Delaware County was proposed by Harris A. Gordon, a transportation consultant and member of the Catskill Center who represented the Town of Woodstock at Tuesday's meeting. And Sylvia Shames, speaking for the Town of Shandaken Environmental Conservation Commission, urged the commission to "save what remains of the scenic beauty of Route 28" by restricting the number, size and kind of roadside developments.

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell said, "Proper sewage, proper water, proper roads and proper planning can achieve a balanced region. Otherwise, you're going to have chaos." The commission has now met with representatives from four Catskill region counties.

New Phase 4 Guidelines Today

(Combined Wire Services)

WASHINGTON — The Cost of Living Council planned late today to release its new Phase 4 regulations for controlling food prices, which spiraled last month despite the government's price freeze.

The latest Consumer Price Index showed that food prices increased eight-tenths of one per cent in July, in defiance of the 60-day price freeze intended to keep the lid on costs.

To a shopper, the July increase meant spending less than one cent per dollar more on groceries, but food prices for the last six months still were increasing at an annual rate of 17.8 per cent, a government official said.

The July figure compared with a 1.4 per cent increase in June.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, said Tuesday the July food-price increase "has not yet been fully explained."

The Cost of Living Council offered several possible explanations, and a spokesman said, "We're looking into it."

At the Labor Department, where the price index is prepared, a spokesman suggested there might have been widespread violations of the price freeze imposed June 13. "How much it might reflect violations of the freeze, we have no way of knowing," he said.

Stein also noted there have been substantial new food price increases since the price freeze was lifted July 18.

The freeze had an over-all effect on the economy, holding total consumer price increases for July to two-tenths of one per cent, down from an average monthly increase of six-tenths of one per cent during the first six months of the year, the index shows.

Non-food commodities, led by clothing, actually showed a decline in July of two-tenths of one per cent on a seasonally unadjusted basis.

The rate of inflation for the six-month period ending in July was listed as 7.4 per cent.

The new food industry regulations being released today will replace the temporary Phase 4 regulations that took effect when the price freeze was lifted from food on July 18.

A main difference is that the new regulations—to go into effect about Sept. 12—will allow food firms to include in their prices all justified cost increases.

A Cost of Living Council official and an economist both believe beef prices will not surge upward when the freeze ends next month.

Henry Perritt, executive secretary of the council, said Tuesday that since beef producers are now withholding meat, the market may be flooded in September, keeping the price down. The worst of rising food prices is over and shoppers can look forward to a leveling off, Perritt predicted.

Dr. James O. Bray, an economist for the Stanford Research Institute, also predicted the cattle available would increase. At the same time, he said, prices for other items would start rising, giving consumers less money to spend on beef. He said beef prices may start declining by the end of the year.

Some food prices were lower at supermarkets on Tuesday.

Chicken and pork prices were down dramatically at A&P stores in the New York area. Center-cut pork chops were down 40 cents a pound from the high of two weeks ago. Frying chickens were 69 cents a pound, 20 cents cheaper than they were last week.

Man Held in Strangling

TOWN OF PLATTEKILL

William Duono, 21, of 1000 Trinity Avenue, Bronx, the accused strangler of a 37-year-old Bronx woman whose body was found Monday near a Town of Plattekill resort, was being held without bail today in Ulster County Jail on a charge of murder.

Hurley State Police BCI investigators arrested Duono in New York early Monday and returned with him to Ulster County.

Duono is accused of the strangulation murder of Consuelo Norma Reyes, 37, of 1453 Webster Avenue, Bronx. The woman's body was found Monday evening in a heavily wooded area about 150 feet from the Villa Galicia, off the Plattekill-Ardonia Road.

Police said Duono, Mrs. Reyes and three other companions who were only identified as being a man and two women had travelled from New York to the Villa Galicia Saturday for the evening.

Senior BCI Investigator Michael Lisman said today that police have learned that at about 1:30 a.m. Duono and Mrs. Reyes apparently had disappeared. Duono later returned, and with his companions, reported Mrs. Reyes missing. A short search followed, police said, and then Duono and his three companions left for New York City.

At about 7:30 Monday,

Lisman said, Johnny Rivera, C. T. Searles left for New York City during the night, and at Galicia, discovered the partly clothed body of Mrs. Reyes in a heavily wooded area behind the resort. State Police and Plattekill Town Police were then called in.

Police said the body was removed to the city morgue, where an autopsy was performed, and the cause of death was listed as asphyxia due to strangulation. Coroner William S. Keyser then issued a verdict of death by criminal means — murder.

Senior BCI Investigators Lisman, Edward Whalen and Roger Gardner and Investigator

Police explained that initial reports of the finding of the body and the search for the alleged murderer were withheld in order not to impede the progress of the investigation.

A Court Agreement

NEW YORK (UPI) — An Orange County vegetable farmer agreed Tuesday to a court order barring his interference with the rights of his migrant workers to legal services.

The Mid-Hudson Valley Legal Services Project of Middletown, N. Y., the providers of that service, agreed on their part not to interfere in the work of George Gurda's farm in the Pine Island black dirt area.

The issue came to a head last summer after Gurda's farm was devastated by three weeks of rain and flooding. It was after that period he took strong exception to the visits to his farm of legal representatives and community workers.

Gurda and his family were accused by the legal services project of denying to his migrant workers access to the project's representatives and various community workers.

After a one week trial, U.S. District Court Judge Arnold Bauman issued a series of guidelines for the future conduct of both sides in the heated dispute.

The judge directed Gurda to refrain from taking any retaliatory action against any of his workers who may seek legal counsel. The project representatives were ordered not to hold any mass meetings or disturb workers who do not wish to be visited.

Bauman appointed Magistrate Sol Schreiber as special master to determine claims by the project representatives concerning wages, working conditions and the transportation of migrant workers.

In his statement to the court, Gurda said he took pride in his ability to get along with his workers "before the lawyers moved in."

"They had nothing to do," he said, "except try to justify their existence by stirring up the workers."

GOV. ROCKEFELLER

$600 Million Less for State

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A powerful legislative committee claims that federal money coming into New York State may be $500 to $600 million less than expected because of the Nixon administration's proposed federal budget for 1973-74.

The Assembly Ways and Means Committee, in an impact study released Tuesday, said the President's efforts to hold down federal spending is expected to prove costly in both the areas of state programs as well as local governments and non-public institutions.

The staff analysis, noting the "great uncertainties" in the fiscal prospects, said that state budgeted programs alone may sustain a loss of between $158 million and $200 million in federal funds.

Referring to local governments and non-public institutions in the state, the study said the aggregate loss brought about by reductions in various programs could go as high as $350-$400 million.

According to the report, state budgeted programs that would be "hardest hit" would center on social services, education, health and manpower training.

New York City would bear the brunt of the losses among the local governments. The Assembly committee placed the estimated decline at between $225 and $250 million for the state's largest city.

Willis H. Stephens, a Manhattan Republican who is chairman of the committee, said that staff members compiled the information "to better assess these implications for public programs" in the state.

"For New York State, there is a major need to assure that special revenue sharing formulas will maintain the total influx of federal funds at an adequate level," Stephens said.

Earlier this year, Governor Rockefeller warned the state's congressional delegation that the state stood to lose money under the President's proposals.

The legislative study suggested that state and local officials "require improved information" in the area of special revenue sharing programs.

According to the impact report, the special revenue sharing programs are expected to produce $13 million dollars in increased community development funds and an additional $5 million for law enforcement. That $18 million increase would be offset, however, by a $115 million loss in other areas. Education would lose $40 million while manpower funds could drop an estimated $75 million, the study said.

Cape Cod Riptide Claims One

ORLEANS, Mass. (AP) — One woman drowned and eight other persons were hospitalized when a giant riptide swept along Nauset Beach near the Cape Cod National Sea Shore Tuesday and pulled at least 50 swimmers out to sea.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Edward Stephoniatis, 52, of Watertown, Conn.

Her husband, Edward, 57, and six other persons were listed in good condition at Cape Cod Hospital in Hyannis. Another person was listed as fair.

(Among those injured were two Dutchess County women, Ann Bercinatto, 24, of Wappingers Falls and Deedee Cunningham, 21, of Amenia. The Bercinatto woman was hospitalized overnight. The Cunningham woman was treated and released.)

Witnesses said many of the swimmers were about 50 feet offshore when the giant riptide — estimated to be about 300 yards wide — sent them further out.

A riptide occurs when two currents running in opposite directions along the shoreline meet and push out to sea.

"Where they meet, something's got to give and it does by going out to sea," explained Joseph Chase, an associate scientist at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution.

"We tried to swim back to shore," said Forest Belvar, 26, of Waterbury, Conn., "but the water just wouldn't let us. Even the people who attempted to rescue us couldn't get anywhere either. It was unbelievable. It was like swimming through a stone wall."

Police chief Chester Landers said he couldn't recall anything similar in the past 20 years endangering swimmers on the Cape.

Landers said the attempts by some swimmers to rescue those first endangered made the rescue by life guards "even more impossible."

One unidentified man rescued five persons by bringing them back to shore on a surf board.

The hospital said those injured underwent treatment for cuts, immersion and shock.

Revision of Ordinances Seen

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ — The growth-restricting changes proposed for New Palitz zoning ordinances will apparently be revised, following the strongly negative reaction the proposed changes aroused when given a public hearing Aug. 13, but the revisions will probably not be given to the town board until about the end of September.

Meanwhile, as matters now stand with no changes adopted for the zoning ordinance, potential subdividers can apply to the planning board for subdivisions under the old regulations.

Theodore Lasher, New Palitz town supervisor, said Tuesday he expected the planning board to send communication to him about revising the changes "soon." However, Dr. David Mesches, chairman of the planning board, said Tuesday his board would wait until the town board receives the recommendations of the Ulster County Planning, and in turn makes recommendations on revisions to the town planning board, before sending any revision recommendations back to the town board.

Mesches said if the town board wants the proposed changes revised, they would have the revision from the planning board "within a month" after they advised the planning board they wanted the changes.

The Ulster County Planning Board next meets Aug. 27, and its recommendations to the town on the proposed changes could not be given until then.

The major changes in New Palitz zoning recommended by the planning board were the division of the present one-acre agricultural zoning into three- and five-acre sections, and changing residential to one-acre zoning.

The changes would have affected more than 80 per cent of the land area in New Palitz, and received rough treatment from the overflow crowd attending the Aug. 13 public hearing. The great majority of those attending the hearing said the changes would make building lots too expensive, kill some people's retirement investment, and force land owners to build planned unit developments to get a return on their land investment.

The town board took no action on the proposed changes.

The town had a moratorium on new subdivisions, to the irritation of a number of local home builders, which lasted until Aug. 15. The moratorium was designed to allow the planning board time to make their new density recommendations. It only lasted 45 days — the planning board had asked for 90, but after another stormy public hearing the town board adopted a 45-day period as a compromise.

$600,000 for Ellenville UR Project

ELLENVILLE — The tempo is going to pick up for the Ellenville Urban Renewal Project now that it has an extra $600,000 tucked away in its budget.

Word was received over the weekend from the office of Congressman Howard W. Robison (R-27) that the Ellenville project was going to receive that amount in amenity funds to add to the $2,141,391 already allocated for the 10-year-old project.

Robert Peck, interim director of the Ellenville Urban Renewal Agency, said about $150,000 of the new money was going to go toward the purchase of the last eight parcels in the project area slated for acquisition. The new money is only for work already in the Ellenville Urban Renewal Plan, not for any additional projects.

Peck said the acquisition of the eight parcels would be the last the agency would do, barring plan changes. The end of acquisition is welcome. "We want to get out of the acquisition business and into redevelopment," said Peck.

A large demolition contract for agency-owned buildings is being set up. Peck said the former JCD Pharmacy on the corner of Market and Canal, a residence on Warren Street, and the American Legion building and three smaller buildings on the site where the senior citizen part of turnkey housing project of the Ellenville Housing Authority is to be built were all to be torn down.

The new money will also be used for such public improvements as sidewalks, lighting, and curbs in the project area, Peck said.

And, the fate of the Market Street mall can now be determined. The mall, part of the present Urban Renewal Plan for Ellenville, has been hanging fire since the agency did not know if it had the money to develop it. "The disposition of the mall will be determined."

Things are moving on other fronts than the new money areas, according to Peck. He said HUD has approved the selling of UR Parcels 4 and 6, the present parking lot on Main and Canal and an adjacent parcel, to the Ellenville National Bank for redevelopment. The disposition must now be approved by the New State

Division of Housing and Renewal, and Peck said the package was now being "reviewed" by them.

He said the agency had expressed to it "a lot of interest" in three parcels in the project area. Possible developers for the parcels include a convenience food store, a furniture display showroom, warehouse, and commercial development of Urban Renewal properties on Market Street.

Peck said the agency was interested in disposing of "several other parcels" for varied redevelopment purposes within the project area. Rather than waiting for a redeveloper, Peck said he was contacting several types of businesses about the available parcels. Evidently not letting the agency's new wealth go to his head, Peck said he had instituted an economy measure. He has closed the site office the agency had on Market Street, which will save the agency about $1,700 a year. Adrian Milton, the relocation director who had been in the site office, will now be available at the main Urban Renewal offices in the Village Hall.

Turnkey Contract Signing Looms

ELLENVILLE — Contract signing appears near for the 70-unit Federally sponsored turnkey housing project in Ellenville, according to Ellenville Housing Authority Chairman Gordon Kent.

Kent said Tuesday that the required environmental impact statements had been completed and forwarded to the New York office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban development (HUD). Kent said a meeting between the Ellenville Housing Authority, the contractor, the architect, and Eastwood Avenue, off Cape

The Thursday meeting is to determine the final costs of the long-awaited Ellenville project. Kent said the next step after the meeting Thursday was to sign the contract with the developer, Jobco Inc., of Great Neck, L.I.

"Once the contract is signed," said Kent, "then the contractor can go."

"With a few loose ends still to be gathered, Kent said no firm starting or completion dates could be set, but that the contractor was ready to start work as soon as he got his contract. "He'd like to go yesterday," said Kent.

According to present plans, the Ellenville project would be located on two sites. A 30-unit senior citizen project would be located on the old American Legion site between Canal and Center Street. A complex of 40 units of low rent family housing would be located on a site on Eastwood Avenue, off Cape

Peck said demolition of the buildings on the property is also in the works. Though he could set no firm dates, Kent said he was hoping for groundbreaking on the project "within the next 60 days."

He said the contractor felt he would be far enough along in the project to be able to work on it all winter. The present project is the

Sewage Study Planned by Woodstock Board

By CARL GRAHAM

WOODSTOCK — The Woodstock Town Board voted Tuesday night to allocate $6,000 in federal revenue sharing funds for a study of the town's sewage problems.

Supervisor Verner L. May, who proposed the resolution, said that a previous study, submitted to the state in 1968 and beefed up with a supplementary report in 1970, had been assigned such a low priority that Woodstock was not even included on a list of 180 New York state municipalities which have been assigned priority ratings for federal aid.

"With such a low priority, the board felt some other steps should be taken," May said in explaining the move for a new study. "We would like to see if pollution could be cleaned up for a reasonable amount of (local) money."

The new study, scheduled to be completed in six months, will be made by Brinnier and Lario's, the town's consulting engineers. Unlike the previous study, which included the whole town and called for construction of a central sewage treatment plant in the area of the Zena school, the new study will concentrate on the area bounded on the north by Glasco Turnpike, on the east by Plockman Lane and Route 375, on the south by the Sawkill River, and on the West by Schoonmaker Lane, an area that includes the hamlet of Woodstock.

Consultant Chris Larios said that the study will search for economical alternatives to the previous plan that could be done without funding aid. He suggested as one possible solution the construction of two or three small "package" treatment plants to serve homes and businesses grouped together closely on high-pollution areas. Colored dyes will be introduced into sewer systems to determine just where pollution is coming from, and the six-month limitation should pose no problems because some data from the previous study is applicable to this one, Larios said.

Larios said that his firm keeps a constant check on the availability of state and federal aid for sewage plant work, and that "aid for Woodstock is just not available in the foreseeable future."

Spinnenweber Construction Company of Port Ewen was awarded a contract for construction of a one million gallon storage tank for the town's water supply district with a low bid of $198,875. Other bids were submitted by Anthony Costanzi Inc. of Kingston ($204,150), and Slutzky Construction Company of Hunter ($242,330).

The tank will be constructed on Ohayo Mountain Road just above the town's water source on the former Cantine property, and is designed to equalize water pressure throughout the district. The new tank will be 24 feet high and trees will be planted around it.

The low bid on a loader-back hoe for the town highway department was submitted by Alberti Equipment Company of Maplecrest, with a figure of $13,571.62. Other bids were received from Jonmar Associates of Red Hook ($17,780), and Ken Smith Machinery of Albany, which bid $14,500 and $15,960 for two different vehicles. May said he was happy with the bids since estimates had been from $17,000 to $18,000.

The board voted to petition the Department of Transportation for a traffic survey on Jessup Road for possible lowering of the present 55 miles an hour speed limit there.

The board reminded the public that the town landfill, which has been operating from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. six days weekly during the summer, will revert back to winter hours after Labor Day. New hours will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to noon Saturday.

The Gossip Column by Robin Adams Sloan

Q: Did Janis Joplin die of an overdose or a combination of drugs and alcohol? — V.P., Boston.

A: The singing star died in 1970 of an overdose of heroin which proved to be too pure for her system to tolerate. She had been drinking before, but not much. You can find out more about Janis in a new biography by Myra Friedman titled "Buried Alive." (William Morrow & Co.) Ms. Friedman points out a most interesting development of dual personality in the tormented rock star. Janis gave herself the name "Pearl" and often tried to live up to what she called her "honkey-tonk" image "Pearl" was hard drinking, swearing, partying, oversexed, lesbian, hippie, stoned, and a floozy. She was different from the private "Janis," who desperately wanted to get off drugs and off drink, talked incessantly of marrying and settling down, and kept in close touch with her family.

Q: I keep reading about Henry Kissinger's steady girl, Nancy Maginnis. What does she think about him taking out all those starlets? — V.E., Bangor, Maine.

Q: How long has Evita Peron been dead and why doesn't Peron bury her? — C.E., Savannah, Ga.

A: The blonde wife of the Argentine dictator died in 1952 of cancer and Peron has kept her preserved in a queen-sized, satin-lined transparent orchid coffin for 21 years and through two wives. Peron never buried his little Evita because she was worshiped by the masses and he called her the "trump card" in his recent comeback from exile. For the return of Evita's body to Argentina, Peron has had her corpse "redone" and she has a new dress and up-dated hair-do.

A: Lennon is planning to sell Tittenhurst Park, the 72-acre walled estate he bought four years ago for about $375,000. Right now he's having all the stuff in the house crated and shipped to New York and we hear he is going to ask more than a million for the mansion.

Gaudet's Wife on Threat... 'He Couldn't Have Done It'

TAOS, N.M. (UPI) — The wife of a former New Orleans policeman wanted for threatening the life of President Nixon said today her husband could not have made the threat because he was living with her at the time in a commune.

Judy Gaudet and a cousin, Stanley Gaudet of New Orleans, talked the Secret Service into ending its 24-hour search for the suspect. Then the two of them hiked into the jagged Sangre de Cristo Mountains to try and find Gaudet.

According to a federal warrant, Gaudet was overheard last week in New Orleans threatening the life of President Nixon.

"I know he couldn't have done it, because he was with me here," Judy Gaudet said at the Morning Star Commune in northern New Mexico. "He supposedly made the threat

Aug. 15, but we've been here since Aug. 2 or 3."

"I wish someone would check."

Gaudet had been traced by Secret Service officers to the commune, located on a high, brush-covered mesa on the west side of New Mexico's highest mountains.

But Gaudet escaped and later shot three times with a rifle at sheriff's officers, then disappeared into the pine trees and canyons.

Gaudet's wife, who said she and the suspect had been living at the commune for about a year except for a brief trip in the early summer, said she thought she knew where he might be.

She said she wouldn't tell the agents, but would try to find him and bring him out of hiding.

Mrs. Gaudet also said she thought her husband was being framed so there would be more public sympathy for Nixon.

State Police Lt. Tommy Cantu said officers had found traces of Gaudet in the mountains, but couldn't pin him down. Cantu said Gaudet knew the area well and could elude officers easily if he got far away.

A case containing bullets for a high-powered rifle was found Tuesday and officers also located Gaudet's camp site.

Gaudet, nicknamed "Punchy," was arrested three years ago in New Orleans for throwing a flaming American flag at Nixon's car during a parade.

The man who owns the commune, Mike Duncan, said Tuesday he didn't think Gaudet could shoot anything. Duncan said Gaudet had been unable to shoot a deer last year even though it would have meant food for his family.

Hurricane Brenda Lashes Southeast Mexico Coast

CAMPECHE, Mexico (UPI) — Hurricane Brenda churned through southeast Mexico Tuesday with winds up to 112 miles an hour, unleashing powerful rains and floods that killed two children and washed away hundreds of homes.

The fierce winds later fell off sharply and the storm appeared to be blowing itself out.

The greatest damage from Brenda's heavy rains and winds appeared to be centered around this capital city just below the Yucatan Peninsula.

Flood waters cascaded through the streets of Campeche and collapsed straw shacks. About 2,000 people were reported homeless after the storm passed.

Authorities said two children in the city were swept away and carried to their deaths in the churning flood waters as Brenda approached.

The winds and rain also knocked out all communications with Ciudad del Carmen, an island city of about 10,000.

Brenda, the season's second hurricane, lost strength late in the afternoon. By 6 p.m., the U.S. National Hurricane Center in Miami reported the winds had fallen to 40 miles per hour or below and announced there would be no further advisories on the storm.

Meteorological experts in Mexico City said the storm was headed south toward the jungle state of Chiapas, on the border with Guatemala. They said Brenda was moving at 6 m.p.h. and blowing itself out.

"Brenda apparently came inland between the cities of Villaherosa and Ciudad del Carmen with winds up to 112 miles per hour," the Mexico Weather Bureau said.

One victim of the storm was the 441-foot Greek freighter Yucatan in the Gulf of Mexico.

'Giant Bubble' Pictures

HOUSTON (UPI) — Scientists today examine pictures taken by the Skylab 2 astronauts of an enormous solar eruption, a phenomenon that might someday reveal secrets of how communications signals are bounced off the Earth's upper atmosphere.

Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma kept a close watch on the sun for any other unusual activity and were checking for a leak in their orbiting space station's cooling system.

Flight controllers Tuesday added another task for the second spacewalk of the mission Friday, asking the astronauts to replace six of the nine stabilization gyroscopes that keep the ship steady in orbit.

Scientists studying the solar eruption, described by Bean when it occurred as a giant "bubble," said good pictures were expected because of a "superb response" by the crew and ground controllers.

Dr. Robert MacQueen of the High Altitude Observatory, Boulder, Colo., said the photos hopefully will provide information about the interaction of particles thrown off the sun by the eruption with the solar atmosphere.

"The general knowledge we might deduce from the solar event may be applicable to the interaction of particles and fields in the Earth's upper atmosphere," MacQueen said.

"We use our own outer atmosphere as a bouncing device for radio signals and it would be good to understand what causes disruptions in our atmosphere and therefore disruptions in our communications systems."

Investigators called the solar prominence "the most significant event" recorded by Bean, Garriott and Lousma during the more than 90 hours of operation of Skylab's telescope assembly.

The spacemen will reload the sun-watching instruments during the spacewalk when they use a six-pack of gyros they brought with them for the replacement job.

Aides Cite Tension, Strain, but . . .

'Nixon Still Leading the Nation'

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon's aides have acknowledged for the first time that he is under tension and strain as a result of Watergate revelations, but they insist that he is capable of performing his presidential duties.

Meanwhile there was speculation that Nixon's long-awaited press conference on Watergate may be held this week, possibly today. Reporters noted that the White House spokesman did not announce a definite time or place for today's press briefing. Nixon has not held a news conference since March 15.

"There is no question that during the past few months, there have been periods of pressure on the President," Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Tuesday. "But he also told reporters, 'There is no question in the President's mind, in the minds of those around the President that he is not only capable of performing the duties of his office, but he is doing this. He is leading the nation.'"

Warren said he checked with White House doctors and Nixon is not taking any medication. Rare questions about Nixon's mental and physical health were handled, to the surprise of reporters, in an almost routine fashion at a news briefing Tuesday.

They stemmed from the President's unusual display of anger and lack of poise while on a speech-making trip to New Orleans Monday.

The President, who was obviously frustrated by the rerouting of his motorcade because of an assassination threat, gave Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler a hard shove when they entered Convention Hall where he addressed the Veterans of Foreign Wars and told him he wanted "no press" to follow him.

The incident was widely publicized and TV cameramen caught the scene on film which some stations later broadcast in slow motion. The film clip showed an angry Nixon and a stunned Ziegler.

During his off-the-cuff remarks, the President also blew some of his lines and misquoted the duke of Wellington. His eyes looked puffy and some of his words were slurred, according to close observers.

"Watching the President speak yesterday there is considerable speculation that the President is under considerable strain and pressure," a reporter told Warren. "How would you describe his mental state at this time?"

Warren replied that the New Orleans situation was "difficult and serious."

But he added, the President "was very pleased with the reception at the VFW convention and very pleased with the response to his remarks from the delegates."

"As to his frame of mind today, it's one he feels . . . he is out here to work. It's time to anything he chooses secret "in the public interest."

They were to appear at a midmorning hearing before Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, who has ordered Nixon to show cause why he should not comply with a Cox subpoena for the tapes of nine Watergate-related phone calls.

Nixon to show cause why he should not comply with a Cox subpoena for the tapes of nine Watergate-related phone calls.

At issue is whether, for the first time in the nation's history, the judiciary can force a President to comply with a subpoena for evidence sought by a grand jury.

Adversaries in the historic confrontation are special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, who contends "no man is above the law," and White House lawyer Charles Alan Wright, who insists the President has the right to keep tapes and Wright arguing the President has the constitutional duty to guard the confidentiality of discussions in his office.

Sirica set no time limit for the oral arguments, but the hearing was expected to last several hours.

An aide to Sirica said it was "within the realm of possibility" that Sirica might rule on the tapes dispute before leaving on a 10-day vacation this weekend, but he said the judge "has set no deadline for himself" to decide the complex legal issues.

Whichever way Sirica rules, the decision is certain to be appealed all the way to the Supreme Court, Nixon has said he would abide by a "definitive ruling" of the high court.

get moving and to get on with the essential business of the nation. In the area of the economy, foreign policy and the energy situation, so I would leave it at that."

"Over the last few months, the President has been called upon to devote a certain amount of time to various speeches and statements that he has made (on Watergate). I think that is obvious," Warren said.

As for Ziegler and the President, Warren said: "I can assure you their relationship is a good one."

"We were dealing with a confused situation yesterday," he explained. "I repeat the relationship is a good one, the matter is over. It is not a matter to be concerned with. The President was to go in one way and the press the other."

Warren evoked loud laughter when he added that Nixon "was just pointing out something to Ron."

In other developments, the on-going Secret Service investigation of a possible plot to assassinate Nixon was described as "extremely sensitive and serious."

The White House continued to play it cool in terms of Nixon's relationship with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. The President has not spoken to the Vice President since Aug. 7 when they discussed allegations that Agnew accepted kickbacks from Maryland contractors.

Court Hearing on Tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House and the Watergate prosecutors fight the first round today of a Supreme Court-bound battle over President Nixon's crucial tape-recorded conversations on the scandal.

At issue is whether, for the first time in the nation's history, the judiciary can force a President to comply with a subpoena for evidence sought by a grand jury.

Adversaries in the historic confrontation are special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, who contends "no man is above the law," and White House lawyer Charles Alan Wright, who insists the President has the right to keep tapes and Wright arguing the

No More Cambodias

With the cessation of bombing support by the United States our activist role in Cambodia presumably rings down. The whole touchy issue of that activist role is hardly something that can be dispassionately discussed.

The extremist camps in the issue—hawk-superpatriot and dove-peacenik—will go on generating the heat that withers, rather than the light of reason. But all agree on one thing, if nothing else: The Cambodian chapter in American history will not go down as a shining one. No way.

The one premise is that we, for the first time, have sanguinely deserted an ally and comrade in arms. The opposite premise is—Cambodia-who? Not our war. Not a place where we should ever have had a military presence.

As this nation in general is divided, so are our leaders. President Nixon, again insistent as with Vietnam on the Peace-With-Honor principle, has stood firmly against a renegade to Cambodia. When Congress forced its will (peace, period) on Mr. Nixon, he as much as told the legislators—should the consequences be dire, you asked for it.

The Cambodia issue has been particularly knotty. The rally cry of stand-by-our-Cambodian-friends is appealingly noble. A rebuttal, of course, is that wars are emotional, only skin-deep, over self interests.

The doves can also on points be rebutted. They are incensed because our bombing in Cambodia was a secret long kept from the American people. But warmaking, to which by any name we were committed administrations ago, is secrecy. It is surprise attack, diversionary tactic, ambush, camouflage, infiltration, espionage.

Without seriously faulting those who, with the best intentions covert or overt, committed the United States to a Cambodian campaign, we say it's a relief to get out. Even a major effort seems to us to have been doomed from the outset.

No convincing effort has been made by the Cambodians to defend themselves. Fortunately the American role has been almost exclusively support bombing. There was never enough to support—in Cambodian dedication, willingness to sacrifice, incorruptibility. (Again, the old, Asian looking-out for No. 1, and family, through graft at the U. S. taxpayers' expense.) Too bad we didn't withdraw our planes sooner instead of waiting till last Tuesday's midnight Zero Hour. Too bad American airmen died in a vain cause. Too bad, our planes and our money being shot down in an endeavor that couldn't work.

(Just the secret bombing in 1969-1970 cost $1.5 billion, the Pentagon has conceded. Since the Vietnam ceasefire in January, up to last week, intensified air sorties cost about another half billion.)

We can look back on Cambodia as a "bad trip," that we must take precautions never to repeat—anywhere, anytime that victory is only a wisp, and those we help won't even match our efforts.

Earnings for the Aged

One continuing argument in the Social Security system is whether the so-called "retirement test" penalizes blue collar and other workers for working after retirement while many retirees of professional occupations are able to live on income from investment on a full pension without penalty. The Senate Special Committee on Aging is wrestling with the question.

Presently, the elderly may earn $2,100 a year without penalty—it increases to $2,400 January 1—with each $2 of additional earnings forcing $1 reduction in benefits. Some whose earnings are much higher choose not to apply for Social Security until age 72, when they can have their benefits and earn as much as they want without penalty so long as they continue to pay their Social Security taxes.

The National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons told the committee that earnings limit should be raised to $3,600 at a cost of about $1.3 million.

With high wages today, it would seem that eliminating the penalty altogether for the elderly who choose to continue to work and are paying their Social Security tax at retirement would fulfill the original purpose of the system and permit persons able and willing to work to do so.

By JACK ANDERSON
and
LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Last summer, when the Watergate culprits plotted their coverup, their first thoughts were to destroy all incriminating documents. They shredded some documents and burned some more. One White House disposal crew even unblushingly planned to "deep six" a file in the malodorous waters of the Potomac.

Yet, one batch of documents escaped: the records of the National Gallery of Art which list the big shots who borrow copies of famous paintings to decorate their offices. Clues to the hidden personalities of the artful dodgers of Watergate are unexpectedly revealed by their choices.

Boish presidential counsel John Dean, whose enigmatic wife Maureen sat behind him all those long days in the Senate hearings, has the same taste for lovely women on his office walls.

Mysterious Maureen's expression is reflected in "La Mousme," a dark-complexioned young woman captured by Van Gogh, which hung in Dean's old office at the Justice Department.

PENSIVE YOUNG GIRL Dean could also muse over the pensive "Young Girl Reading" by Fragonard — ironically, a painter who fell from grace during the French Revolution because he had shown fawning loyalty to the corrupt French kings.

Egil "Bud" Krogh, the White House's tough law and order advisor, as chief of the "plumbers," ran the antilaw and order break-in of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office. But he exhibited a surprisingly delicate taste in art.

When he was transferred to the Transportation Department, his choice was the mystic "Wildflowers" of Redon, one of the most peculiar stylists of the past century. A Krogh aide told our reporter Bob Owens that the plumbers' chief eyed it several times each day.

In the White House quarters of Tom Charles Huston, the controversial young lawyer who drafted dark, ugly plans for clandestine burglaries and wiretaps on his fellow Americans, there were by contrast two brilliant, open scenes of outdoor beauty, one of the Lackawanna Valley, the other of Venice.

KLEINDIENST'S 'HIGH ROAD'

Another outdoor scene, the "View of a High Road"—perhaps the same "high road" he tried to take before the Senate Watergate Committee—graced the Justice Department office of former Attorney General Richard Kleindienst.

A White House talent seeker and hatchet man, Fred Malek, borrowed a print called "End of the Hunt." Whether "End of the Hunt" marks the end of Malek's talent hunt, or the end of Waterbugger Howard Hunt's tenure as a White House aide may be cause to ponder.

Selections from the National Gallery portfolio also give curious insights into bigwigs beside the Watergate bunch.

Discharged Interior Secretary Wally Hickel's office prophetically borrowed Rembrandt's "The Philosopher," while the House Immigration Subcommittee decorated its office with a dreamy picture of faraway Italy. Usually upbeat Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, surprisingly picked Picasso's somber "The Tragedy."

By coincidence, the Senate's handsome Peter Dominick, R-Colo., and House Administration Chairman Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, who has an irrepressible eye for the ladies, both exhibit the same picture—"The Lovers," by Picasso.

CATARACT COVER-UP—Confidential Air Force medical records indicate a battle royal is raging behind the scenes over whether military radar sets give servicemen cataracts.

For years, we have warned against microwave exposure. Finally, the Veterans Administration upheld our view on the radars in a landmark case. But the Pentagon, faced with tens of millions of dollars in equipment, training and personnel changes, not to mention disability payments and legal suits, has publicly maintained there is "no hazard" from ordinary exposure.

Now, the Air Force's own experts seem to be going against this view in a major test case, involving T. Sgt. Dennis Johnson, a veteran radar man.

Three Air Force doctors have found the cataracts and one has said flatly his "cataracts can be associated with radiation." Another expert comments, "With the increasing numbers of (Johnson's) old unit developing cataracts, it certainly sounds suggestive." Still a third recommends no more radar duty for Johnson.

Meanwhile, the 37-year-old Johnson is caught in the middle. If the Air Force admits its radars gave him cataracts, it could mean millions in costs to the Navy and Army, as well. But if the Air Force conceals the radar damage, it endangers the eyes of thousands of military radar men.

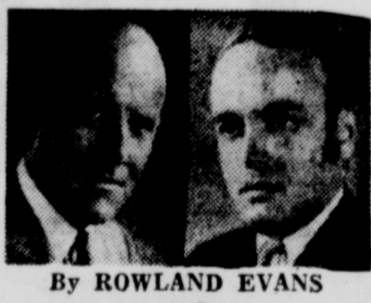

SAFE PASSAGE—Back when he was engineering head for the Army in the Panama Canal Zone, Col. Robert Clark got $3,000 worth of unauthorized improvements on his quarters at taxpayers' expense, including glass sliding doors in his living room.

Despite his taste for federally-funded extravagance, he was promoted to lieutenant governor of the Canal Zone. But his wasteful ways were too much for even the U.S.-run Canal authorities, and according to a letter from the Army, he was admonished. Clark retired, but we recently found him right back in the Zone holding down a plush job in the Canal Administration.

'This Calls for an Expert, Sonny!'

By ROWLAND EVANS
and
ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A confidential telephone call from top White House aide Melvin R. Laird to a Republican congressional leader, warning him not to go all-out in defense of Vice President Spiro Agnew, is new and harsh evidence to party professionals of the depth of the crisis that threatens Ted Agnew.

In his Aug. 7 telephone call to Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference, Laird carefully specified that he was talking not as a White House aide.

His message: don't get on a limb in the Agnew affair, particularly with an all-out defense of the Vice President. Stay away from the Agnew affair as far as possible.

Agnew is under intense federal investigation on charges of possible criminal violations of various federal statutes involving bribery, extortion, tax fraud and conspiracy.

Republicans who know about the Laird call to Anderson (described as "astonished" by the warning) assume that Laird and possibly other party grandees have contacted other senior Republicans with similar warnings. Moreover, the Laird telephone call to Anderson fits a pattern that has infuriated the Agnew camp. For example:

1. Before Agnew himself received formal notice from the Justice Department that he was under investigation, Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson reported (in late July) to White House staff chief Alexander M. Haig Jr., with a briefing on all aspects of the case. On Aug. 2, Agnew's attorneys received their letter from the prosecutors.

2. A prominent television commentator was privately cautioned by an official of the Justice Department 10 days ago in words similar to those used by Laird to Anderson: don't go overboard for Agnew; you may wind up with egg on your face.

3. The White House has gone to embarrassing length not to put the President on record as to his Vice President's innocence. White House spokesman Gerald Warren will only say that Mr. Nixon's confidence in Agnew has not changed.

4. The New York Times front-page dispatch of Aug. 15, outlining charges against Agnew in vivid detail, is believed by furious Agnew allies to have emanated from high levels of the Justice Department (who flatly deny it), not from Maryland sources also implicated in the charges against Agnew.

It is not surprising that allies of Agnew, whose talents have sometimes been grossly used by the President to advance Mr. Nixon's interests, would be filled with dark suspicion over these incidents. They regard them as proof of nefarious underground administration warfare against Agnew, partly to ease the President's immense Watergate burdens.

Thus, in this conspiratorial view—so understandable on the part of Agnew intimates—Mr. Nixon or Republicans close to him are greasing the skids for the hapless Vice President. Under the 25th Amendment to the Constitution, they are quietly preparing to nominate a successor—most likely John B. Connally.

It was Connally who saved Mr. Nixon from disaster in the inflationary crisis of August 1971. Perhaps Connally, the former Democratic governor of Texas who turned Republican at a moment of maximum help to the Watergate-beleaguered President last spring, can help again.

Inside Report

Agnewites Embittered

To Agnewites, that fits the known fact that Connally recently cancelled his plans for a long trip abroad and the lesser-known fact that some Connally friends predict he will be back in the administration in October.

But in fact the Laird warnings may spring from something far less conspiratorial. They may be a flashing signal of caution based not on any desire to do in Agnew but on a rational and informed judgment that Agnew is a goner.

Likewise, Richardson's July briefing of Haig, before Agnew himself had formal notification, may also be explainable as a rational act based on the President's prior right to know. "Is that normal?" a Justice Department official repeated in answer to our question. "Hell, nothing's normal in this case. We're playing it by ear."

But such quiet and rational explanation is understandably difficult for Agnewites. The mood in the Agnew camp has grown isolated and embittered. Now, with word being secretly passed to "keep clear" of the Agnew affair, that mood will intensify, with dangerous implications for the Republican future no matter how the investigation finally ends.

Moving Toward a Meatless Diet

America is caught in a food crisis. The deepest wounds will be inflicted on the poor. A long time ago, outraged colonists protested the tax on tea. They tossed it into Boston harbor.

No one wants to deny the farmer a good living in this land of plenty. The livestock grower too deserves a fair profit. But somewhere, somehow, our economy has been overmanaged. Meat prices are absurd and insulting. This family is going to cut the use of meat close to zero.

I phoned Sal Mudano, administrator of Hollywood Memorial Hospital. Did he have a dietitian who could devise an almost meatless menu? He did. He put me in touch with Mrs. Margaret Williams, chief dietitian. She is a handsome redhead who studied dietetics at the University of Southern Illinois.

She says it is possible to work out three meals a day which will give the body all the proteins, iron, potassium, starch, etc. that is required for good health at about half the cost of meals laden with steaks, chops and roasts. Read it. Copy it and pass it to your friends:

FIRST DAY
BREAKFAST: Orange juice; Special K; French toast with marmalade; milk.
LUNCH: Cheese Strata—cheese sandwich baked with milk and egg batter; buttered mixed vegetables; bread; margarine; chocolate spoon cake.
DINNER: Chicken and Homemade Noodles; Make noodles, stew bony bits of chicken separately, pour the broth on noodles; canned Shelley green beans; cole slaw; bread, margarine; fruit Jell-O.

SECOND DAY
BREAKFAST: Grapefruit sections; Cream of Wheat; cinnamon toast; milk.
LUNCH: Take cauliflower, French fry it in pan, cover with cheese sauce; lima beans, tomato salad, bread, margarine; fresh banana dipped in orange juice and rolled in nuts, ready to serve.

DINNER: Clam Fritters: in mixing bowl place flour, parsley, chopped onions, baking power, eggs, white pepper, salt, dash of lemon juice—use canned minced clams, chop, drain juice off, add clams to mixing bowl last. While mixing slowly, slowly add clam juice. Form into patties. Fry on greased griddle at 375 degrees two to three minutes.

THIRD DAY
BREAKFAST: Tomato juice; Corn Flakes; frozen waffles with margarine—add honey or syrup, milk.
LUNCH: Homemade vegetable soup made with marrow bone; broiled tuna Hawaiian sandwich (slice of pineapple added to tuna, slice of American cheese), celery and radishes. Jell-O cubes with whipped cream.

DINNER: Egg and Macaroni Cutlet—cook macaroni in salted water. Cool under running water, drain. Chop into 1/2-inch pieces. Take margarine, onion chopped; green pepper chopped; canned mushrooms chopped; add flour; cook in fat until onions are transparent. Add hot milk, simmer. Take hard-cooked eggs, chopped parsley, dash of Worcestershire, Parmesan cheese, salt, pepper—add all ingredients to macaroni. Mix well. Add crumb breading. Form into 4-oz. cutlets. Chill. Then fry at 350 degrees until browned.

Serve with half pear filled with cream cheese, bread, margarine. For dessert, serve peanut butter bars—mix dry oatmeal with butter, cinnamon, sugar. Place in pan. Add lumps of peanut butter. Sugar on top. Allow to cool, cut in bars.

FOURTH DAY
BREAKFAST: Cinnamon applesauce. Oatmeal with brown sugar; French toast with syrup, milk.
LUNCH: Curried eggs on toast—melt margarine in pan; add flour, hot milk, chicken stock, salt, pepper, curry powder; simmer 20 min. Add hard-cooked eggs each cut into six pieces.

Fold carefully into sauce. Hold over hot water, not direct heat. Serve on toast or over rice. Side dishes: spinach; shredded carrot and raisin salad, mix with mayonnaise. Strawberry Whip 'N Chill.

DINNER: Tomato-Rice Meatballs. Mix 1 1/2 oz. per portion of beef, ground pork, minced onion, cooked rice. Use scoop to make individual meat balls. Place on greased baking sheets. Add crumbs, eggs, salt, pepper, milk. Bake 10 min. at 450 degrees. Discard grease. Heat tomato sauce. Pour over meat balls. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 min. Also serve blackeyed peas, Cucumber and onion salad. Bread, margarine. For dessert, orange sections sprinkled with coconut.

There, four days of healthful, delectable food with just a smidge of meat. Mrs. Williams will give me additional menus to round out the week. They will appear in the next column. Hope it helps you as it has helped us.

A Fish Story

Editor, The Freeman:
William Kelly, Chief Regional Fish Biologist at the DEC's New Paltz office, obviously is well versed on the type of environment best suited for trout reproduction.

Specifically, plenty of cold clear unpolluted water with large quantities of aquatic food sources. Are these qualities present in Esopus Creek below the discharge of the Schoharie Reservoir from the Shandaken Tunnel?

As a trained observer living in Phoenicia with the Esopus Creek running at my front door step, I say, "It ain't necessarily so." Turbidity has been present in the Esopus since the conception of the N.Y. City Reservoir System in the Catskill Mountains. However, the mud and silt now present began only four years ago, in the summer of 1970. Imagine if you can, a trout stream where a white object of six inches cannot be seen twenty four inches under water! This is no longer simply turbidity but sediment, and wildlife research biologists list stream sedimentation as the number one form of water pollution. It causes a decline in water quality which is detrimental to both fish and wildlife.

We have in fact seen the 20 to 25 inch spring run rainbow trout decline to the point of near extinction. Spawning beds are no longer present where these fish had previously reproduced future generations. Wild trout breed after reaching a certain maturity. Size is not a factor. In small streams with poor food, a four inch trout will carry eggs and reproduce. A fry hatched from the egg of a large trout will be five times the size of one hatched from the smaller fish and with proportional ability to survive and grow. The significant point is that the Esopus Creek still has a trout population in spite of the silt and mud flow. They are in reduced quantities and of smaller size because of the persistent siltation. This downward cycle has been obvious in the past four years and if it is not corrected, it may eventually reach the point of no return.

The reason for the mud flowing from the Shandaken Tunnel into the Esopus Creek has never been determined. Schoharie Creek is crystal clear and Schoharie Reservoir is likewise. At this writing, we have experienced a 30-hour continuous rain period here in Shandaken. The tributary streams in this area are still crystal clear and also the Esopus Creek up stream from the Portal. The only known clay deposits are on the Chichester Stream and on Birch Creek, which are a problem during extremely high water conditions.

If we are ever going to succeed in bringing back the Esopus Creek to the condition it once enjoyed, we must first stop acting as if the muddy water was not here or might go away next year. Regulating the flow from the Portal is of considerable importance and will benefit the trout, but it is not the final solution. Also, there is no assurance that N.Y.C. Water Supply will comply with recommendations from the DEC in regard to flow rates.

Let's find the problem, attack it and make corrections.

CHUCK SCHWARTZ

Transportation

Editor, The Freeman:

On behalf of the boys, adult leaders and parents of Troop 84, a very sincere THANK YOU. Your help during the critical period of seeking transportation to replace our crippled bus and subsequent fund raising was highly successful.

The contingent of boys and adult leaders traveled by Greyhound Bus and reached the Philmont Scout Ranch in Cimarron, N.M., in time for their reservation there and were able to take full advantage of the facilities. The boys hiked about one hundred miles in the beautiful Santa de Crista mountains at an altitude of 10,000 to 12,000 feet. They were able to participate in rock climbing, panning for gold, burro packing and racing, horseback riding, rifle shooting, and other activities of great interest to boys. They were also able to visit various museums and sites of interest.

While these activities were of great interest to the group, we feel that the most valuable experience of the trek was for the boys to see and feel the interest and concern of the community.

We are very grateful for your activity and concern in this experience.

A Small Miracle

Editor, The Freeman:

I'm in hopes that in printing this letter, you may be instrumental in locating two beautiful people. What they did was a miracle. About two weeks ago on a Thursday afternoon, my husband and I were visiting near Lake Minnewaska. We parked our car at one of the scenic roadways. I stupidly and inadvertently left my purse at the area and didn't realize it for at least a half hour later when we were miles away. We immediately rushed back to the area, but alas no purse. We called the Kingston Police Department, thinking that perhaps someone reported finding it.

So very dejectedly we went back to the place I left it hoping against hope, when up drives this black chevy (I think) with two beautiful senior citizens. We both blurted out, "Did you?" They were looking for me to return my purse. I was just so overcome with joy and relief I didn't know whether to cry or laugh. The best way I can describe my "angels of mercy," is that the gentleman was a tall, slender man who retired from the New York City Sanitation Department about 15 years ago and is now living in the area. His wife was an adorable, round-faced woman with the prettiest blue eyes. She sat in the car so I couldn't really see how tall she was, but she looked about five feet tall.

The reason for this letter is simple. I would like to locate the couple because in my excitement I forgot to get their name and address so I could do something nice for them. They refused any reward at all except for $1.00.

I call this my "miracle of Minnewaska." When I think of the troubles I would have had — calling up all the credit card companies, plus my driver's registration, house and car keys, eye glasses and other items a woman usually carries with her. I truly thank God for the honesty of this couple. You can readily see why I'd love to locate this couple to properly thank them.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Sincerely,
BEATRICE GROPPER

New Base Closings Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger has told the armed services to prepare for possible new base closings and cutbacks before next year's congressional elections.

This would be the second wave of base slashes in about a year.

The Pentagon last April shut, reduced or consolidated 274 installations in 32 states at a claimed savings of $3.5 billion over the next 10 years.

Since then, Congress has been cracking down hard on defense money requests for new weapons and one key committee has voted to cut the armed forces by 156,000 men below what the Nixon administration has planned for the post-Vietnam era.

Pentagon sources said Schlesinger has directed the Army, Navy and Air Force to review their base requirements and to send him a list of expendable installations by mid-December.

Congress will have finished work on the defense budget by then, and Pentagon leaders will know where they stand.

United States and 323 abroad.

Any new base closings and cutbacks probably would be announced early in 1974 when the next budget goes to Capitol Hill but would not take effect until after the voters pick their representatives and senators in November next year.

Congressmen can be expected to fight the loss of bases in their states, and the jobs that go with them.

But Schlesinger has shown signs he intends to be tough in dealing with Congress, an attitude reminiscent of former De-

Power Outage Thursday

KINGSTON — Electrical power will be interrupted at city hall, Rondout Gardens and at the Rondout Fire Station in Broadway East for three hours Thursday morning while Central Hudson crews reinforce and make changes to the electrical distribution system serving that area.

Central Hudson officials said the three buildings would be the only ones affected by the power interruption, scheduled for Thursday, in the event of inclement weather, the power interruption will occur between 9 a.m. and noon on Friday.

New electrical lines are being installed to reinforce power in the area, along with new lines to serve the UDC apartment complex to the rear of city hall.

Rosendale GOP Tabs Defelicio

TOWN OF ROSENDALE — Supervisor Gerard Defelicio was nominated by the Town of Rosendale Republican Party to seek his fifth term in office at Tuesday night's party caucus.

Some 250 enrolled Republicans—the largest turnout in years—attended Tuesday's caucus. There were no contests for any of the eight positions that will be decided in the November elections.

Five other incumbents were selected by party members: town justice Raymond LeFever, town councilman Harry Snyder, tax collector Joan Every, highway superintendent Jerome Mack and two-year assessor Percy Quick.

Also nominated were Robert Schryler for another two-year assessor post and Arthur Hahn for a four-year assessor seat.

The town clerk's position was left vacant.

Theater Fete Slated for SEEC Group

KINGSTON — More than 60 members of SEEC, an organization for the blind and sighted for advancement of the blind will attend a theatre performance this week.

The theater party will be at the Woodstock Playhouse, 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 23 for the National Shakespeare Company's Kiss Me Kate. The musical comedy, a favorite on Broadway and in road shows and summer stock, incorporates Shakespeare's Taming of the Shrew in its plot.

Staatsburg Youth Charged

RED HOOK — A 16-year-old Staatsburg youth was charged Tuesday with criminal possession of stolen property in the first degree and six vehicle and traffic violations following a high speed chase on an allegedly stolen motorcycle which police said at times reached 110 miles per hour.

The chase began, police said, when Trooper B.W. Schaller of the Rhinebeck State Police, spotted the youth on the motorcycle which matched the description of one reported stolen earlier in the day from Staatsburg. The trooper attempted to stop the youth, but he speeded up and the chase ensued along Route 9G. The youth was finally stopped near Red Hook, police said.

The youth was confined in Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail following arraignment before Rhinebeck Town Justice Herman Tietjen pending a reappearance at a later date.

Little Wonder Antenna, ...'Imminently Hazardous'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new government safety commission has branded "imminently hazardous" the "Little Wonder TV Antenna" and has started steps to remove the product from the market.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission said Tuesday users of the antenna should unplug or disconnect them immediately because they pose the danger of electrocution.

Commission Chairman Richard O. Simpson said he had asked the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) to investigate alleged "misleading and possibly fraudulent advertising" of the product by its national distributors, Windsor House of Island Park, N.Y., and Sunset House of Los Angeles, both mail order firms.

The antenna is manufactured by A. K. Electric Corp. of Brooklyn and connects directly to home electrical outlets. But Simpson said the antenna contains no safety device to prevent shock or possible electrocution.

The commission was established by Congress in October.

New Foghorn At Lighthouse

KINGSTON — Kingston Lighthouse is back in the business of giving warning to boats on the Hudson River during foggy weather, with the installation Monday of a new foghorn to replace one stolen last week.

A spokesman for the U.S. Coast Guard Station in Saugerties said the new foghorn was installed Monday morning.

Meanwhile, investigation was continuing into the theft of the warning device which was previously housed at the lighthouse.

A thief or thieves apparently travelled by boat, broke into the lighthouse, and made off with the foghorn sometime during the five days preceding Aug. 15, when the theft was discovered. The FBI is investigating the theft, which is a federal offense.

The Coast Guard had warned that a potentially dangerous situation existed without a foghorn at the lighthouse.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks opened lower again today, as Wall Street continued its preoccupation with recent market losses, inflation and rising interest rates.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down more than a point and declining issues took a broad lead over advances in very light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Big Board volume leader was Pan Am, steady at 6. Other active issues included Gulf Oil, down 1/4 to 21 1/4; Travelodge International unchanged at 11 1/2; Sterling Drug, up 1/4 to 32 1/2; and IBM, steady at 297 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow fell 9.56 points to 857.84, its lowest close in 20 months. The blue chip indicator's decline in recent sessions has more than erased its July gains.

Brokers note the unusually slow trading this week and say it indicates a general lack of investor confidence in a market abounding with solid issues available at bargain prices.

They say it probably will take some solid favorable news to reverse the slide, but that few encouraging developments are in sight.

May Be Forced Completely Out of the Market

Potential Home Buyer Hit Hard by Tight Money Supply

By United Press International

A home buyer who postponed purchasing a $35,000, single-family home from June to August will pay another $3,600 for the decision, the chief economist of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board estimates.

Harris C. Friedman, asked about rising mortgage rates, said recently the two-month delay may have hit the potential home buyer worse by forcing him completely out of the market because of the tight mortgage money supply.

Despite increases in state usury ceilings in recent months and higher interest charges in states without ceilings, Friedman said, money available for mortgages declined by more than $1 billion in July and August.

That outflow of savings funds had the potential of eliminating financing for 30,000 homes.

Federal and state agencies have raised usury ceilings to attract larger shares of the shrinking mortgage funds. New York and New Jersey raised their mortgage ceilings to 8 per cent in recent weeks, and the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration increased their maximums to 7 1/2 per cent.

"I don't think it's going to do any good," Friedman said in an interview, citing many states such as California and Virginia which have no usury ceilings.

The "real mortgage market" is between 9 and 9 1/2 per cent, Friedman said. Home buyers in areas with rates below 9 per cent can secure a mortgage, he said, only if they make "substantial" down payments, are important bank savers or work with real estate brokers who are good bank customers.

Bank officials in Buffalo and Albany, N.Y., said Thursday that they are lending mortgage money only at 8 per cent rates and down payments of about one third, compared to 10 and 20 per cent in June.

Savings and loan officials in Washington, D.C., and Maryland, which have 8 per cent ceilings, have virtually frozen commitments this month. Dwire, vice president of the National Bank of Detroit, said few mortgages at 8 per cent, while in Oklahoma 8 per cent requests increased 25 per cent in June and again in July.

In Michigan, where rates are quite alarming, and indicates payments, Most Oklahoma and Arkansas loans are going at 8 1/2 per cent, Friedman said the net effect has been that a $35,000 home has been withdrawn from the of Insured Savings is granting a June would cost the buyer $72,000 for principal and interest over 30 years. Now, the same $30,000 mortgage costs $75,600 over 25 years, he said.

There is an added irritant for the August home buyer, Friedman said. More than $1 billion available for mortgages in June has been withdrawn from savings accounts.

Soviets and Santa
... Reindeer Request

MOSCOW (AP) — Santa Claus was originally a Russian, so why shouldn't the Soviet Union let Sue Fortune have those two Siberian reindeer?

"I've gone through the various bureaus and am now up to the commissioner of zoos," said Mrs. Fortune of Auburndale, Mass. "If necessary, I'll take the matter all the way to Brezhnev."

Leonid Brezhnev is chief of the Soviet Communist party and they don't come any higher in the land of the Hammer and Sickle.

Mrs. Fortune, an attractive, red-haired widow in her 40s, is seeking to buy a pair of white Siberian reindeer for two of her projects back in the U.S. — Santa's Workshop in North Pole, N.Y., and Santa's Operation Toylift.

"They are magnificent animals, and the only place you can find them are here in Russia," Mrs. Fortune said. "We have about 45 reindeer in all, but we want these Siberian reindeer."

"I am running into obstacles because Christmas is a religious holiday and the Russians are sensitive about anything with a religious connotation."

Mrs. Fortune came to Moscow loaded with Santa Claus legend to try to break down the Soviets.

"I try to tell the Russians that there is no need to be edgy, that Santa Claus actually was a Russian before he was a little fat man with whiskers and a round belly," she said.

Mrs. Fortune is in Moscow as one of the American administrators in the World University Games. But her avocation is Santa Claus.

Her late husband, Harold, was cofounder with Julian J. Reiss of Santa's Workshop, an attraction for children on White Face Mountain 10 miles from Lake Placid. Santa's Operation Toylift is a charity fund that takes Christmas — including real reindeer and whiskered Santa Clauses — to handicapped and needy children throughout the United States.

"We have Alaskan, Japanese and English reindeer," Mrs. Fortune said. "We must have a pair of Siberians. They are bigger than most reindeer, have two stomachs and chew a cud like a cow. If I can get through to Mr. Brezhnev I think I can convince him."

Zorba the Greek Is Now Allowed By New Decree

ATHENS (UPI) — Greeks could play or sing "Zorba the Greek" today without fear of arrest.

Monday's publication of a presidential decree formally lifting more than six years of martial law also erased a ban on the music of exiled composer Mikis Theodorakis, who wrote "Zorba the Greek."

The decree was one of four signed and published by newly installed President George Papadopoulos.

Besides ending martial law, the decrees granted general amnesty to more than 300 political prisoners, pardoned a man who once tried to assassinate Papadopoulos and absolved from prosecution any police or military personnel who might be accused of mistreating political prisoners during the martial law period.

The latter decree wrote off all crimes committed by "lawyers defending political criminals" and "state organs executing their duties in connection with the arrest, interrogation and trial of all criminal cases until the publication of this decree."

There have been numerous allegations of torture and inhuman treatment of political prisoners by police and military officials since the April, 1967 military takeover.

A special decree pardoned Alexandros Panagoulis, 35, an army deserter who five years ago tried to blow up a car in which Papadopoulos was riding.

Papadopoulos was inaugurated Sunday for a seven-year term as the first president of the new Greek Republic, formed July 29 by a referendum that approved a draft constitution divesting Greece of its monarchy.

The general amnesty, however, did not apply to Greeks abroad whose actions were considered violations of security and subversion laws. It also excluded royalist navy officers who defected to Italy in May after the government discovered an alleged mutiny plot.

A spokesman for the Justice Ministry, which will implement the decrees, said local prosecutors would issue orders to prisons in their areas for the release of detainees covered by the amnesty.

Vegetarian Diets Popular, Interest Causing Problems

By The Associated Press

Vegetarians who've been shunning meat for years are finding it's fashionable these days to dine on fruits and vegetables. They're also finding that popularity has its drawbacks—like higher prices and more work.

"I used to answer our mail every week. Now I have to do it every day, and there's really too much for one person," says Freya Dimshah, wife of the director of the American Vegan Society.

The society, based in Malaga, N.J., is much stricter than most vegetarian organizations.

Members eat no meat or fish; nor do they eat the by-products of animals, such as dairy products and eggs. They also avoid all items made from animals, including wool, silk and leather. Many vegetarians eat eggs and dairy products and have no prohibition on things like wool.

Mrs. Dimshah said "quite a bit of interest has been expressed" in the society in recent months, partly because of the high cost of meat and short supply of beef.

She said the society has several hundred paid-subscription members, with several formal chapters around the country. In addition, an unknown number of people adopt part or all of the Vegan philosophy after writing for information. Mrs.

Dimshah said. The society publishes a book called "Vegan Kitchen" and a pamphlet titled "Month of Menus."

Discussing the meat shortage and soaring prices, Mrs. Dimshah—who was born in England and was raised as a vegetarian, although not a Vegan—said:

"We have seen this coming for a long time. In order to feed all the people in the world, we have to turn to a diet which, if not totally vegetarian, is at least mainly vegetarian."

She said it takes about one-eighth as much land to produce food for a vegetarian as for a meat eater. It's also cheaper for the individual consumer.

Mrs. Dimshah estimated it costs $8 to $10 per week per person for food on the Vegan diet. A typical day's meals, she said, would include fruit and nuts for breakfast; a salad with protein—such as nuts or beans—for lunch, maybe with some soup; and salad with cooked vegetables and a starch for dinner.

The Theosophical Society of America is much less strict than the Vegans. The educational-philosophical organization doesn't require that its members be vegetarians, although many are.

Among the vegetarians is Joy Mills, the group's president. She said the society is dedicated to "promoting the ideals of universal brotherhood of humanity" and believes that "all humanity is derived from one life." From there, it's a short step to opposing the killing of any animal.

Miss Mills, who does eat dairy products and eggs, estimated that the society has about 6,000 members in the United States. She said interest of late has increased tremendously.

She expressed concern over one thing, however: "Will somebody start scurrying around looking for all the protein foods so that they'll be in short supply and go up in price?"

One of the largest manufacturers of vegetarian foods is Loma Linda Products of Los Angeles. The company is owned by the Seventh-day Adventist church, many of whose members are vegetarians although it is not a requirement.

"We just can't keep up with the sales," said Werner Carlson, vice president. He said the Vita Burger—including soybeans, yeast, salt, soy flour, onion powder and flavorings—"is selling so fast we don't know what next week will bring."

Shortages and high prices already are worrying some people. A spokesman for Grannys Feelfoods, a vegetarian restaurant in downtown Miami, said business is booming—but so are his costs.

"Every morning I go down to the market, and I just hold my breath," he said. "The prices are incredible. Grains are not available. I had a problem getting raisins. Now there are no dates."

Saulpaugh - Terpening Nuptials Announced

Nancy Lou Saulpaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Saulpaugh of Glasco, exchanged nuptial vows with Philip Terpening of Potsdam on Saturday, Aug. 11, at St. Joseph's Church in Glasco. The Rev. Joseph Santulin officiated, assisted by the Rev. Ronald Lockhorst. Mrs. Carmella DeCamillis, organist, accompanied Joe Liquori who sang traditional wedding selections.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Terpening of Salem Street, Port Ewen.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected an original gown of taffeta overlaid with chiffon. The fitted bodice featured pearled French lace with accents of lace on the full sheer sleeves. The chapel length train was attached to an Empire waistline and was edged with pearled lace. Her gown was made by Mrs. Diana VanCampenhout. A mantilla veil was attached to a Canot headpiece and was accented with lace appliques. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, white daisies and pink roses.

Miss Diane Amendola, cousin of the bride, Spaulding Lane, Saugerties, was maid of honor. Miss Jean Spadola of Pine Bush served as bridesmaid. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Jean Amendola of Saugerties, cousin of the bride. Melinda Terpening, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

waistline, A-line skirt, and a capelet-effect collar. The gown featured a flounce at the hemline and a blue sash at the waist. She wore a pink picture hat and carried a colonial nosegay of pink roses and blue and white carnations.

The bridesmaids' gowns were identical in styling to the maid of honor's. They wore blue picture hats and carried colonial nosegays of pink and white carnations.

The flower girl's gown was similar to those of the other attendants. She wore a blue ribbon in her hair and carried a small fireside basket of blue and white carnations.

Wedding Vows Exchanged Recently

R. Marie Stewart, Kingston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Stewart of Waverly, became the bride of Manuel Castro of Lake Katrine, Saturday, Aug. 11. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Charlotte Castro of Brooklyn. The Rev. Joseph McDonough of Mt. St. Alphonsus officiated at the double ring ceremony at the Church of the Presentation in Port Ewen. Lisa Serniak and Anita Clarkin, guitarists, provided traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected on white-on-white bridal gown of polyester and Dacron. The gown which was made by the bride featured a A-line Empire waistline. She wore a fingertip-length lace mantilla. Ann Guistina of Horseheads was maid of honor in a blue and lavender flowered, cotton-rayon gown styled with an A-line, Empire waistline. She carried a nosegay of purple and pink pompons.

Attendants were Kathleen Hoff of New Port News, Va., and Marcelline Barrett of Corning. Their pink and purple gowns were identical in styling to the honor attendant's.

Art Greendlinger of Woodstock was best man.

Ushers were Warren Grifka of Brooklyn and Alan Neifeld of Kingston.

A reception was given at Roberto's Restaurant in Port Ewen.

The bride, a graduate of Notre Dame High School in Elmira and State University of New York at Cortland, is employed as a physical education teacher at Kingston City Schools.

Her husband, an alumnus of Thomas Jefferson High School in Brooklyn, attended Brooklyn College, and is a computer programmer at IBM, Kingston.

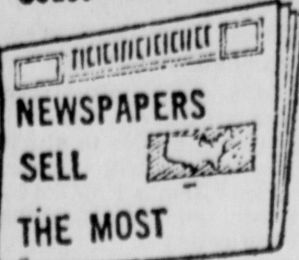

After a wedding trip to California, the couple will reside at Lake Katrine Apartments, 7-A, Lake Katrine.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to find a wealthy woman to marry, but she has to have more than money. She must be well-educated, pretty, and have a good figure. I don't want one with children living with her. She can take a social drink but she should know when to stop. Under no circumstances would I marry a woman who smokes. She can be anywhere from 35 to 50, but she must be in good health and romantically inclined.

I am a 49-year-old widower who was happily married to the same woman for 26 years. I am 6 ft. 3 and weigh 210 pounds. I am in excellent health and work out in the YMCA daily. I have a master's degree and earn $12,000 a year. I work a 40-hour week and have every weekend off, like to dance, swim and travel. I do not smoke or get drunk, and I am definitely romantically inclined.

I think it's just as easy to love a rich woman as a poor one if all the other qualifications are met. Does this make sense to you?

LOOKING
DEAR LOOKING: Yes. And it's just as easy for a rich woman to love a rich man. And a lot easier for her to land one, so don't get your hopes up.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I live directly across the highway from his parents, who are very nice. We have an opportunity to sell our home, which is on a one-acre piece of property given to us by his parents. They say we shouldn't sell because they gave us that land. Now my husband has reconsidered selling, and I am very unhappy.

Abby, we have two sons, 3 and 5 years old, and it is very dangerous living on a busy highway because the boys like to run across it a lot to visit their grandparents. We can't keep them inside all year round, and a fence doesn't help.

We offered to pay his parents for the land, but they refuse to accept anything. Are they being selfish? Or am I being hoggish?

WANTS TO SELL
DEAR WANTS: A gift once given becomes the property of the person to whom it was given. His parents have attached strings to their gift. This is their way of keeping you near them, and unless your husband is sufficiently independent to sell anyway, they've got you where they want you.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing for suggestions on what to do about a husband who is in the armed forces, stationed in Missouri. He doesn't feel that it's necessary to keep in touch.

I've asked him to write: He's too "busy." I've asked him to phone: It's too expensive.

Since he doesn't bother writing to me, I didn't write to him, so finally after a long silence, he called me. When I tried to explain why I hadn't written he wouldn't listen.

I am employed full time and have two children to look after. I told him I worry when I get no word from him, and his response was: "If I die, the service will inform you."

What do you suggest?

LETTERLESS
DEAR LETTERLESS: Quit playing tit for tat, and write to him whether you hear from him or not. And write happy, cheerful, newsy, interesting letters. And include local newspaper items and amusing cartoons. You can catch more bears with honey than the bait you're throwing out.

Ellenville Art Show Lists Two Judges

Robert F. Filipek of Kingston, ceramicist, sculptor and professional architectural designer, and Joseph M. Petick, assistant professor of art education at State University College, New Paltz, will judge entries in the Ellenville Art-in-the-Square exhibit and competition on Saturday, Aug. 25. Mr. Filipek will judge professional, amateur and young peoples' entries in sculpture, ceramics and crafts categories. Mr. Petick will judge oils and acrylics, water colors, graphics and photography.

A native of Minnesota, Filipek holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from the Minneapolis School of Art and has pursued advanced study at New York's Pratt Institute. He is an exhibiting member of the Marbletown Artists' Association and co-chairman of that group.

metal, and wood design for commercial and private structures. In the Ulster County area, he has executed a stone fireplace and living room restoration for a 1680 stone house near Kingston, designed a hexagonal residence of glass, stone, and heavy beams in Kingston, and is currently restoring a Lomontville area salt box home dating back to 1600. His metal sculptures are incorporated in the decor of buildings ranging from New York's Pan Am building to the Caribe Hilton in San Juan Puerto Rico.

A graduate of the State University at Buffalo and holder of a Master's degree in art education from the University of Buffalo as well as a fine arts degree from the Albright Art School, Professor Petick has been affiliated with the Rochester Memorial Art Gallery and the Rochester Institute of Technology. ## Pork Prices Coming Down?

There is a glimmer of hope, Consumers! Prices on some pork cuts have shown a noticeable drop at the wholesale end, as have poultry prices. These price declines should be reflected at the retail stores at least by next week, according to the Consumer and Market Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. Sale prices on these items, however, will show the decrease this week, as retailers, glad to get something showing a price decline, will widely feature pork loin cuts and poultry. There will only be a few scattered beef features, as available supplies are tight and deliveries uncertain. Items on sale will be sirloin steak around $1.79, sirloin tip steak, $1.89 to $1.99, rib steak $1.49, round steak $1.79 to $1.89, and chuck steak 99 cents. Boneless rump, round and sirloin tip roasts where on sale will range from $1.69 to $1.89. There will also be a few specials on round bone shoulder roasts at $1.29, arm cut shoulder roast $1.19, beef liver 89 cents, and franks from 98 cents to $1.29.

Pork features will be mostly loin cuts such as whole pork loin $1.15 to $1.29, rib portion roast $1.09 to $1.19, and loin portion $1.19 to $1.39, center cut pork chops from $1.79 to $1.89, rib end chops $1.49 with first cut rib end chops $1.19, loin end chops will range from $1.29 to $1.59 depending on cut. Combination center type chops and end chops will be $1.29 to $1.39, pork shoulder steak $1.19, smoked pork butts $1.49. Also on sale will be smoked ham $1.10 to $1.15, butt end $1.05 to $1.15, shank end 98 cents, center cut ham slices $1.75 and country style spareribs $1.29 to $1.39, semi-boneless ham whole or half $1.09 and bacon $1.29 to $1.49.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS

...it tells you how

The ideal solution might be a modern-day version of grandpa's root cellar. Any corner of an unheated basement will do. Insulate its ceiling (so heat can't radiate down from upstairs) and completely isolate the area with two short walls (insulate them too, if necessary). A tightly fitting, insulated door is also essential. Allow air to circulate as shown and, if your mini-root cellar doesn't have a dirt floor (for proper humidity control), keep a filled bucket of water in the storage area at all times. That's it. Bring in your harvest just before the first killing frost, try to maintain a humid storage temperature of 40°F or less . . . and your carrots, onions, turnips, beets and other root crops should keep until spring, unless you eat them first!

For more freezing, drying, salting, canning and root storage ideas, send 10¢ and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope to THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS, in care of this paper. Ask for Reprint No. 146, HOME FOOD PRESERVATION.

Burr House Exhibit Saturday: Woodstock

People who enjoy art and wish to see what young people are producing will not want to miss the festive Open House and Student Exhibition at the Burr House in Woodstock this Saturday from 2 to 5 p.m. This annual event will be highlighted by the announcement of the winner of the Arnold Blanch Memorial Fund Award. Work in this exhibition has been done this summer by the eight students in residence — three boys who live in the barn, and five girls who have separate rooms in the main house. These students have been studying at the Art Students' League Summer School or have been working independently. Most of the artwork on display will be for sale.

Guests at the Open House will have the opportunity to browse through the Burr House — a lovely colonial house with six bedrooms, a large barn, and a separate kitchen. The Burr House was willed to the Woodstock Artists Association by Rose Guggenheim Winslow in 1959 to contribute to the creative life of Woodstock.

The Association decided that it would be best to use the property as a summer residence for art students. This gives the students a unique opportunity in Woodstock to have adequate housing at a minimal cost. Through the years, the problem of inexpensive housing for art students has been a serious one — now more than ever. Presently, Burr House is the sole solution to this problem and deserves support for its efforts to meet one of Woodstock's oldest needs. Students who are accepted at Burr House live inexpensively in an atmosphere that encourages artistic growth.

The Woodstock community benefits by having these young, serious students take part in the town's activities. Some of the students who have stayed at the Burr House in past years, have come back later on to live in Woodstock.

Bill and Paula Dooley, the resident couple, have managed the Burr House and its affairs for the past five years. Evening activities have expanded with the help of Eva Plaut who has given slide seminars on various movements in Nineteenth and Twentieth Century Art.

The Burr House is located about one mile from the center of the town of Woodstock, off Route 212 towards Bearsville, on Spear Road. Those who are concerned with the reality and potential of Burr House are urged to attend the Open house and exhibition.

Helpful Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:
People are always complaining that they don't receive "thank-you" notes for bridal and baby showers. So as a gift, I give a box or two of thank-you notes and a roll of stamps.

This serves as a gentle hint and the recipient is very pleased. She doesn't have to buy stamps or note paper. This might be a suggestion for gift to someone who has everything.

Peggy Cain

Dear Heloise:
Recently I was faced with the job of cutting dates for date bars.

It's a messy job even if you dip your scissors in water each time. I unwrapped the dates, which were stuck together in a solid pack about three inches high, and put the pack on a cutting board. I saved thin slices from it with a pizza cutter (the round wheel type).

I laid each slice flat and cut it into thin strips. Perfect! You don't even have to dip the cutter in water. Maybe chilling the dates first would be even better, but maybe they wouldn't stick together in the pack as well.

I have found a pizza cutter to be a very versatile little gadget. It really gets a workout in my kitchen.

Betty

Dear Heloise:
Everyone's so calorie-conscious I thought you'd enjoy this hint. When you're cooking those delicious vegetables such as cauliflower, broccoli and brussels sprouts, and you want a good cheese sauce to really set them off, try this. Shred an inch chunk of your favorite cheese, maybe cheddar, sharp or even the pasteurized.

When the vegetables are done, pour off all but a little bit of the juice and lightly stir in the shredded cheese, then cover. Let it sit for about 2 or 3 minutes. Then stir lightly again and serve.

It's delicious, and you don't have all those calories from milk, flour and butter.

Look Here! Mrs. Homemaker

HOUSEHOLD ECOLOGY

"The date" June 1 has come and gone — that was the date when all phosphate detergents in New York State were removed from the market shelves, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

Some homemakers have hoarded, some will buy in other states, but some of us will be faced with the fact "how do we wash our clothes?"

To begin with, continue to use good laundry practices, pre-spotting heavy soil, sorting light and dark clothes, using very hot water, bleaching, measuring soap or detergent and keeping the wash load small.

The best directions for good laundry results using soap or the new non-phosphate detergents are:

1. Read the manufacturers' directions on the package.

2. Use very hot water (for colored clothes — water 120 degrees F.).

3. Fill the machine, add detergent or soap then agitate to dissolve.

4. Add clothes — wash.

5. Add bleach according to the recommended directions. It probably will not be necessary to add any more bleach than you are accustomed to using.

The amount of soap or detergent and the amount of time needed for washing depends on many factors such as size of load, amount of soil and temperature of water so each homemaker will need to decide this for her situation by the trial and error method.

When using soap it may be necessary to give the clothes a double rinse.

This depends on the hardness of the water: the harder the water the more soap curds. One cup of white vinegar may be added to the last deep rinse to help dissolve the soap curds. There is a possibility that the vinegar, being acid, could pit the lining of the washer, but the proportion of acid to water is so small this is very doubtful. If the homemaker feels this is happening eliminate the vinegar.

Most of the new non-phosphate detergents use sodium carbonate (washing soda) in place of the phosphate. Some detergents replaced the phosphates with citrate. A study made in a New York State county where phosphates have been banned for some time reports that the citrate based detergents do not weaken the quality of the flame retardant sleepwear. Check the label on the detergent packages.

The legislation to keep phosphates in dishwashing detergents has been passed by the legislature and signed by the Governor so dishwasher owners may relax!

If you are bothered with a rash or skin irritation which you think comes from soaps or detergents resort to the trial and error method — change brands, switch from a sodium carbonate detergent to a citrate detergent and use more rinses to see if one or more of these methods will solve your problem.

The cleaning power of phosphate weakens as it is stored. If you go on a shopping spree in another state keep this in mind.

PAW Will Present Original Play Friday

Marcia Haufrecht's original play, "The Independence of Striva Kowarsky," opens this Friday night at 8:30 at Woodstock Town Hall. For the last two weeks of rehearsal, the direction has been taken over by Robert Burgos, who has directed three previous productions for Performing Arts of Woodstock. Last fall, Burgos directed three original one-acts for the organization under the title "Once, Again and Yet Again." Among the three was a play by Marcia Haufrecht.

Earlier this summer, Burgos directed "Jimmy Shine" by Murry Schisgal at the Vinyard Players Summer Theatre on Martha's Vineyard and the world premier of Leonard Melfi's "Eddie and Susanna in Love" at the Manhattan Theatre Club in New York City. Currently, he is preparing a production of a new play, "Olu Clemente," which plays Sept. 3 at the New York Shakespeare Festival's Delacourt Theatre.

At the Cincinnati Playhouse this spring, he acted in three Tennessee Williams' one-acts and toured in the New York Shakespeare Festival-sponsored production of "Union Street." Burgos has also appeared in a variety of roles in film, television, off-Broadway and summer stock. On Broadway, he has managed the "Candy Apple," off-Broadway, "Open 24 Hours," and has built many off-Broadway shows including "America Hurrah" and "Dames at Sea." Burgos is a member of the Directors Unit at the Actors Studio in New York City.

Burgos takes over the direction from Charles Gordone, well-known actor, director and playwright, whose own "No Place to Be Somebody" won the Pulitzer Prize several years back. Mr. Gordone had to leave the present production because of a Hollywood commitment.

"The Independence of Striva Kowarsky" will play for three weekends, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. For further information contact Mrs. Edith LeFever in Woodstock or Mrs. Barbara Goldstone.

THE TIMES UNION
'The Boys from Syracuse Production Is Pure Fun

By MARTIN P. KELLY
Drama Critic
Shakespeare's "The Comedy of Errors" has provided a worthy model for "The Boys From Syracuse," a 1930s musical by George Abbott with music and lyrics by Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart.

DIRECTOR Richard Ronald Beebe has literally pulled out all the stops, to coin a phrase, in his staging of the musical. Every comic device and burlesque routine in existence seems to be used in this production with wild, hilarious effectiveness.

The cast at Woodstock, involved in productions of "As You Like It," "Julius Caesar," "Kiss Me Kate," and "Your Own Thing," display marvelous ensemble in this musical playing with each actor contributing to the comedy. There isn't a straight man in the bunch.

Bell Cites Work of Sportsmen

WOODSTOCK — "New York City's change in attitude concerning the conditions in the Esopus Creek is most welcome," Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.) said today, adding that a great deal of credit must go to the persistence and dedication of the Ulster County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs. The federation, he explained, has been constant in its criticisms of the city of New York as well as in its suggestions for the improvement of the creek which, up to now, had been rejected by the city.

For years the city has released water from the Schoharie Reservoir through the Shandaken tunnel into the Esopus Creek where the water flows by gravity to the Ashokan Reservoir. The Esopus Creek is essentially used as a conduit for the New York City water supply system, Bell said.

"For years I have written and pleaded with the authorities in New York City to be more realistic in the management of the Esopus Creek," Bell declared. "Oftentimes the Shandaken tunnel is closed or fully open. There is either a huge rush of water or none. This creates muddy conditions and is injurious to the fish life and the ecosystems in the creek. The City of New York now has evidenced a willingness to cooperate and receive suggestions on controlling the waterflow. This can help fish propagation and stream control."

The assemblyman also pointed out that the Temporary Commission on the Water Supply Needs of Southeastern New York also has been considering recommendations urging the multiple use of the reservoir system in upstate New York for recreation and other purposes and vesting control in a regional authority. Bell is vice-chairman of the commission.

"Apparently, the City of New York is beginning to realize that our natural resources are not the captive property of one municipality, but a natural asset which must be shared equitably and fairly by all," the Woodstock lawmaker noted. "The Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs and the Phenicia Fish and Game Association have been most active in pursuing a more realistic stream control program for the Esopus Creek and I certainly hope that this new feeling of cooperation on behalf of the City of New York will grow into a good program to benefit all," Bell concluded.

May to Head Woodstock GOP

WOODSTOCK — In the three-way race for the Woodstock Supervisor Verner L. May was nominated by the Republican Party Monday night to seek reelection in November.

Also nominated were Marjorie Harder, incumbent town clerk and James W. Kimms, town justice.

There were two contests, one for the councilman nomination and the second for superintendent of highways.

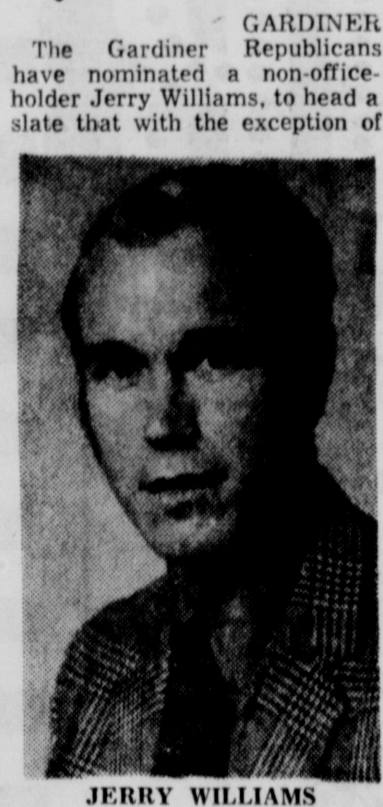

Williams contains all incumbents.

Williams, nominated for the supervisor post, resides on the Minnewaska Trail, and is a teacher at the New Paltz Middle School. He served on the Gardiner Appeals Board, and resigned from that position to become the first president of the newly-organized Gardiner Homeowners Association.

The other candidates nominated were incumbents Mrs. Vivian McCord, town clerk; Gilbert Tice, tax collector; Robert Lacouette, councilman; Michael Gillen, assessor for two years; Herb Dawson, assessor for four years; John Grey, superintendent of highways; and Samuel Stokes, town justice.

The Gardiner Republican Club will sponsor a candidates night Sept. 28 at the Ireland Corners Hotel. All candidates for local office will be present as well as the seven Republican legislative candidates seeking election in the newly-formed election district.

Rosendale Democrats Tab Cahill for Top Slot

ROSENDALE — Rosendale Democrats caucusing Monday night nominated Paul Cahill as candidate for supervisor.

Also designated as Democratic nominee were incumbent town clerk, Catherine O'Leary; tax collector, Patricia Rowe; superintendent of highways, William Einemann; town justice, Richard Peruse; councilman, William Ritter.

Also, assessor, four years, incumbent Edward Connolly; assessor, two years, Michael Doria; and an assessor candidate to fill out the unexpired term of Arnold Pezzino, George Mollenhauer.

Democratic Chairman Barbara DeStefano read a joint statement signed by both she and Republican Chairman Gerard DeFelicis in which they agreed that neither the Democratic or Republican slate of town candidates will accept the Conservative Party nomination.

They said they recently polled their committees and found they were "overwhelmingly" against Conservative Party endorsement of candidates.

"Some local Conservative Party members do not truly represent the ideals of the national Conservative Party but are only interested in dividing the major parties into segments among themselves," they claimed.

Dutchess Committeemen Select Chase of Pine Plains

PINE PLAINS — Clyde Chase, R-Pine Plains, has been selected by Republican committeemen of three Northern Dutchess townships to seek another term on the Board of Representatives.

Chase, in his second term will run for District XXIX representative under the new county reapportionment. The new district includes the entire town of Pine Plains and Milan.

Neff Named In Rochester

ROCHESTER — Wilfred Neff was nominated as the Democratic candidate for supervisor of the Town of Rochester at a Democratic Party caucus held Sunday in Pataskunk.

Named to run with Neff on the Democratic ticket were the following: C. David Clark,

The fair livestock and horticultural second full day of exhibits and swarmed the fairgrounds on Sunday.

Long line of blue ribbon hopefuls await the judge's verdict.

Some of today's featured events include a 7 p.m. demonstration by Paul LaCross, billed as the world's fastest and fanciest gunslinger; the ventriloquist team of Vickie Taylor and Ronnie; the Herrick Marionettes, who'll stage their final show of the day at 6:30 p.m. and a dog obedience demonstration at the Dance Tent beginning at 6:15 p.m.

From 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. tonight, Max Smulwicz and his orchestra will preside over a Polish dance festival that is free and open to the public.

One of the traditionally popular exhibits at the fair is the Hall of Health, which features free medical screening tests, including blood pressure, blood chemistry, electrocardiogram, oral cancer detection, pulmonary function and venereal disease.

All of the scheduled events and activities featured at the fair are listed in a free brochure that's available at the fairgrounds. The brochure also includes a map of the display and exhibit areas on the sprawling fairgrounds.

Kingston Landfill Study Is Underway

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON The city of Kingston is set to sign agreements with a consulting engineer from New York City which city officials hope will provide both short and long range solutions to the city's refuse collection problems.

Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein told the Freeman on Tuesday that agreements between the city and Charles A. Manganaro of 51 Madison Avenue, New York City, would be countersigned by both parties "within the next day or two."

Under the agreement, Manganaro, a partner in the firm of Manganaro, Martin and Lincoln which drew up the county's solid waste disposal study in 1970, will submit plans for the extension of the life of the Kingston Point Landfill for up to 430 days. Work on that is to be completed on or before Sept. 30 of this year. The landfill will be depleted in October.

The second part of Manganaro's job is to study, recommend and submit plans for approval to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for the establishment of new landfills within the city limits. Manganaro is to have that work completed within 90 days of the signing of the agreement, which would bring it to late November of this year.

Under Phase I of the agreement—the extension of the present landfill at Kingston Point—Manganaro, in preliminary plans to the city, proposes to raise the level of the landfill from its present 10 feet elevation to 17 feet, providing additional space for 103,000 cubic yards of trash.

Superintendent of Public Works Charles A. Cole, who has repeatedly warned that the city would be creating a "Mt. Trashmore" by continually raising the elevation of the landfill, thereby reducing the usable land, says now that under the Manganaro proposal "we won't lose that much useable land."

"We'll still have ample room for the proposed landfill, parking facilities and other facilities," Cole said.

But, owing to the Manganaro agreement, that landfill won't be built next year, as previously indicated by Mayor Francis R.

Koenig. "Obviously, we can't build a landfill while we're still dumping down there," Cole said.

Comparatively speaking, the extension of the landfill is the lesser of the two parts of Manganaro's job. Finding a new landfill site within the city of Kingston while meeting the myriad requirements by state and federal officials and then steering it through the bureaucracy could prove most difficult. "It would take nothing less than a year for an engineer to survey all the (possible) sites, make his recommendations, submit all his reports to EPA and get approval," Cole said. "This is a very, very complex piece of machinery, nothing like what it was five years ago."

Cole said there are a number of criteria involved in the selection of a landfill site. "First of all, it should be as far removed from habitation as possible. Drainage is a primary concern. They don't want any streams or wells polluted. And we'd like a site where cover material is either on site or in close proximity to cut down the cost of importation of cover," Cole said.

Bottom Fell Out of Stan Bahnsen's Balloon

By United Press International
Stan Bahnsen's near no-hitter last night for the Chicago White Sox was almost as poetic his expression of how he felt after he gave up his only hit, a single to Walt Williams, with two out in the ninth inning.

"It felt like the bottom fell out of the balloon I was riding," Bahnsen said after settling for a 4-0, one-hit victory over the Cleveland Indians and just missing the American League's fifth no-hitter this year. "It was such an emotional thing 'til then, I just wanted Williams to hit the ball on the ground and he did."

Williams, who takes a short stroke, rapped a ground ball on a 2-1 pitch too hard and too far to the left for third baseman Bill Melton to nab. Bahnsen, who had pitched a pair of no-hitters in the minors in 1966 and 1967, stood gazing into centerfield for a few moments before retiring the last hitter.

A Tough Hitter
"I always wanted to pitch a no-hitter in the big leagues," said Bahnsen who won 21 games last year after being traded to the White Sox from the Yankees. "I wish Williams would have pulled the ball a little. He's a tough hitter."

Bahnsen, who gave up a walk to Dave Duncan with two out in the second inning and then retired 17 batters in order before walking Duncan again in the eighth, picked up his 16th victory against 14 defeats. Second baseman Jorge Orta drove in two runs for Chicago on three hits, including the third homer, and also saved the no-hitter temporarily when he went behind second base to make a tremendous stop and throw out Buddy Bell in the third.

In other American League games, Baltimore nipped Minnesota, 2-1, Boston outslugged

Texas, 15-9. Kansas City clipped New York, 5-4, Detroit tripped Oakland, 6-4, and Milwaukee downed California, 6-2.

In National League action, Chicago beat Cincinnati, 6-4, San Francisco defeated Montreal, 3-1, Philadelphia edged San Diego, 9-8. New York tripped Los Angeles, 2-1, Atlanta beat St. Louis, 11-7, and Pittsburgh downed Houston, 6-3.

Al Bumbry's ninth-inning sacrifice fly scored Bobby Grich, who had doubled and moved to third on a single by Mark Belanger, with the winning run as the Orioles extended their winning streak to nine games by beating Minnesota. Grant Jackson, 7-0, earned the victory in relief of Jim Palmer. Twins' starter Bert Blyleven, 15-13, absorbed the defeat although he won the distance for the 19th time.

Evans Starts Inning

Dwight Evans powered a 450-foot two-run homer in the second inning and started a five-run third inning and Reggie Smith drove in five runs to pace Boston over the Rangers and give Roger Moret his eighth victory without a defeat.

Lou Piniella's third single of the game drove in Amos Otis, who had doubled, with the tie-breaking run in the fifth inning and lifted Kansas City past the Yankees behind the excellent relief pitching of Joe Hoerner. Hoerner worked out of a bases-loaded jam with one out in the sixth after relieving starter Steve Mingori and collected his fourth save.

Mickey Stanley hit two triples and a single and drove in two runs and John Hiller pitched five innings of two-hit relief in leading the Tigers over Oakland and snapping a nine-game

A's winning streak. The triumph kept the Tigers in second place in the AL East, 3½ games behind Baltimore, and shaved Oakland's lead in the AL West to two games over the Royals.

Johnny Briggs doubled in two runs and Bobby Mitchell knocked in a pair with a homer to account for a four-run sixth inning as Brewers behind the eight-hit pitching of Jim Colborn, beat the Angels. Colborn struck out four and walked none in winning his 16th game. Nolan Ryan, 14-15, took the loss after leaving in the sixth.

ONE OUT AWAY — Chicago pitcher Stan Bahnsen was one out away in the ninth inning from pitching a no-hitter against Cleveland Tuesday. Bahnsen (L) shown in action and after game (R) talking with sports writers, telling how he felt when former White Sox player Walt Williams spoiled his no-hit bid. Chicago won, 4-0. (UPI)

Mathews Lauds Hank as Team Man

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Ed Mathews, Aaron's long-time friend and current manager, has been saying all season that the Atlanta Braves slugger's No. 1 goal is not surpassing Babe Ruth's all-time career home run record.

"Sure, Hank wants to break the record," Mathews has been telling anyone who would listen. "But he won't sacrifice his value to the team by swinging for homers in any situation. He wants more than anything else to play in one more World Series. And that means hitting to win games."

With 704 homers and the Braves out of the National League's Western Division race, Aaron is at a stage in his assault on Ruth's mark of 714 career homers where he could be excused if he swung for the horizon every time he went to the plate.

But true to Mathews' prediction, Aaron is "swinging for the team" — as he did Tuesday night when he had a double and two singles and drove in three runs as the Braves rallied from a 7-0 deficit in the third inning to beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 11-7. The homerless game, Atlanta's 128th game of the season, left Aaron with a projection of eight more homers this season and a total of 712.

Pittsburgh Defeats Houston
Pittsburgh defeated Houston, 6-3. New York nipped Los Angeles, 2-1, San Francisco beat Montreal, 3-1. Chicago topped Cincinnati, 6-4, and Philadelphia rallied for a 9-8 triumph over San Diego in other NL games.

Pitcher Rick Wise's grand slam homer was the big blow of the Cardinals' seven-run third-inning outburst but the Braves rallied for six runs in their half of the frame on Baker's two-run single, Dusty Baker's two-run double and Dave Johnson's two-run homer.

Mike Lum tied the score at 7-7 with a homer in the fifth and the Braves went ahead 9-7 when Darrell Evans and Aaron followed with singles and Baker hit his second two-run double of the game. Aaron doubled home and then retired from the game. Gary Neibauer picked up his second win while the loss was Wise's ninth.

The Pirates crept to within 1½ games of the Cardinals in the NL East when rookie John Morlan scattered nine hits and Gene Clines scored the decisive run on Don Wilson's third wild pitch. Willie Stargell drove in two runs for the Pirates while John Edwards homered for Houston.

Sadecki Pitches Four-Hitter

Ray Sadecki pitched a four-hitter, his first complete game since Sept. 13, 1971, as the Mets beat the Dodgers on John Milner's ninth-inning single which drove in Wayne Garrett. The Mets, who had three hits off 15-game winner Don Sutton in the first seven innings, tied the score in the eighth on a walk, a bunt single, a sacrifice and Don Hahn's sacrifice fly. Bill Russell homered for the Dodgers.

Ron Bryant allowed five hits against 12 defeats.

Ron Bryant allowed five hits against 12 defeats. Carty and Don Kessinger had three hits each for the Cubs while Joe Morgan had three hits, including his 19th homer, for the Reds. Del Unser's three-run double with two out in the ninth lifted the Phils over the Padres, who carried an 8.5 lead into the ninth. Greg Luzinski hit his tie-breaking run for the Phils in the seventh inning and Ferguson Jenkins went the distance with a 10-hitter, his 11th win in the Cornhuskers lost Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers, Outland Trophy winner Rich Glover and All-America defensive end Willie Harper through graduation. But new coach Tom Osborne returns six offensive and four defensive starters from last year's squad plus an additional 30 lettermen.

Trojans Unanimous Choice

NEW YORK (UPI)—The University of Southern California, a unanimous choice as the No. 1 team in college football last year, is expected to capture that honor again this season, according to the United Press International's Board of Coaches.

The UPI coaches board didn't make the Trojans a unanimous pick in the pre-season ratings, but of the 29 coaches who participated in the voting, 25 selected USC as their No. 1 pick. The four other first place votes went to Michigan, Ohio State, Texas and Auburn.

Runner-up to the Trojans in the balloting was perennial Big Eight power Nebraska, the 1971 national champion. The Cornhuskers received 175 points, which was nine more than the third place finisher, Ohio State.

Texas, defending Southwest Conference champion, finished fourth in the voting followed by Alabama and Michigan. Then says, "but if we're better than last year's club, we've got a helluva team."

The Trojans have lost seven starters from the offensive unit and four from the defensive team, but among the returnees are running back Anthony Davis and linebacker Richard Wood, both second team All-America selections a year ago. Also back are two outstanding pass receivers, Lynn Swann and J.D. McKay, and quarterback Pat Haden, whom coach McKay believes could be the best ever to wear a Trojan jersey.

"He's as good a dropback and rollout passer as I've ever seen," McKay says of Haden. "Even when he scrambles, he'll find a way to throw a 50-yard touchdown pass."

Nebraska's choice as No. 2 comes as a bit of a surprise, since the Cornhuskers lost Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers, Outland Trophy winner Rich Glover and All-America defensive end Willie Harper through graduation. But new coach Tom Osborne returns six offensive and four defensive starters from last year's squad plus an additional 30 lettermen.

Swimmers, Cagers Strike WUG Gold

MOSCOW (UPI)—The embarrassment of track and field behind them, U.S. athletes were in the gold medals' race at the seventh World University Games today after a trio of firsts by the swimmers and another victory by the men's basketball team. But, however hard they try, they can hope for no better than second place behind the runaway Russians.

Following gold medals by Cathy Carr of Albuquerque, N.M., in the women's 200-meter breaststroke, Sally Tuttle of Ventura, Calif., in the women's 100-meter freestyle and Allen Poucher of Jacksonville, Fla., in the men's 100-meter butterfly, the U.S. cagers routed a taller Czechoslovakia team, 110-59, to move closer to the almost inevitable final matchup with the Soviet Union.

Russians Add Five More

The Russians, meanwhile, ignoring the first decisive U.S. breakthrough in the gold medal rush, added five more in assorted sports to boost their overall total to an unreachable 48. The United States, with five golds now, moved into second place and Romania dropped back a notch to third with three.

"We had a day off on Monday and it hurt us," said U.S. basketball Coach Ed Badger, whose all-winning team plays Cuba today. "It was a bit of a letdown."

The "letdown" was that the Americans did not maintain their 80-plus winning average margin, but the Czechs were never in the game after an opening 20-2 U.S. surge. Marvin Barnes of Providence was high man for the Americans with 21 points.

The U.S. swimmers, led by a record-breaking performance in the games by Miss Carr in the 200-meter breast stroke, braved a driving rainstorm and chilling winds from the Moscow River, which borders the open-air Lenin Stadium swimming pool.

Pursued heavily by the Soviet Union's Ludmila Porubaiko, the two-time Olympic champion Miss Carr managed to maintain her fading lead down the final 100 yards to win by a half-stroke, in 2:42.3.

She's Grateful

"I haven't worked out since school ended," she said, "and I'm just grateful to win."

Poucher, a sophomore at the University of Southern California, swam to a personal all-time best of 56.4 in winning the 100-meter butterfly by a second over Byron MacDonald of Canada.

Miss Tuttle also achieved a first when she took the 100-meter freestyle in 1:00.3. It was her initial triumph in international competition.

A clean sweep of the only four swimming finals was foiled for the Americans when Vladimir Bure of the Soviet Union surged off to an excellent start and covered the first 50 meters of the 100-meter freestyle event in a spectacular 23.8.

After that, it was all downhill as Bure made it home in 52.0 to easily out-distance Kenneth Knox of Glen Ridge, N.J. The other Soviet gold medals went to Viatcheslav Strahov in the high diving, and a pair of doubles victories in tennis.

Hostility Toward Israeli May Hurt Russian Chances

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Russia's treatment of Israeli athletes at the World University Games apparently may have damaged the Soviet Union's chances of hosting the 1980 Summer Olympic Games, a survey of United States sports officials indicated Tuesday night.

After it was reported that Russian soldiers jeered and heckled the Israeli basketball team Tuesday for the third time in four days while some spectators shouted "Kikes, Kikes" at Soviet Jews who held an Israeli flag aloft in the stands, the U.S. sportsmen denounced the incidents.

"It's certainly a step in very bad taste, because the Russian Jewish situation is bad enough," said Newgold Black, secretary to U.S. Olympic Committee President Philip Krum.

David Rivenes, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, said he was shocked at the treatment given the Israeli athletes, and such action might significantly influence the voting on Russia's bid for the Olympics.

The International Olympic Committee will vote next year in Vienna on the site of the 1980 Olympics. The 1976 Olympics will be held in Montreal.

"I think it is a terrible state of affairs," said Rivenes, a businessman in Miles City, Mont. "Politics should not enter into the Olympic Games, Pan-American Games and certainly not the University Games. It is merely supposed to be a get-together of students."

Three in Row For Taiwan?

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI)—A team from Taiwan has won the Little League World Series the last two years and on the basis of Tuesday's performance, three in a row is a distinct possibility.

Huang Ching-Hui, a flame-throwing right-hander, pitched a perfect game, striking out 16 of 18 batters and Taiwan hitters rapped out 13 hits, including a record-tying four homers, in an 18-0 pasting of Bitburg (Germany) Air Force Base.

The opener in the series was no contest. It was 14-0 after three innings and in the last two frames, the Tainan City batters bunted to hold the score down. Huang, who also leads the club in hitting with a .531 average in tournament play, hammered one of the club's four homers.

Home runs by Wang Ching-Chung, Lien Ying-Shao and Kuo Wen-Li enabled the team to match the record of four homers in one game set by Monterrey, Mexico when it won the Little League title in 1958.

The team from Tampa, Fla. wasn't quite as impressive as the Chinese squad but the southern U.S. representative still managed to overpower Whalley, British Columbia, 11-2.

Quinton Kinsey's grand slam homer in the fifth inning was the big blow of the game. Kinsey and Bryce Mattox led the winners' attack with three hits apiece.

Pitcher Darryl Mitchell fired a two-hitter and struck out 10, but was touched for two runs in the first inning when Whalley catcher Terry Screamstead homered with one man on.

In today's games, the western and eastern U.S. representatives will meet when Tucson, Ariz. takes on Colonie, N.Y. The game will mark the first appearance of an Arizona team in World Series competition.

In the second game, a team from Birmingham, Mich., the central representative, faces a club from Monterrey, Mexico.

Badalato also made the final bracket in another category, the women's doubles, as she teamed with Mary Fowler to topple Hevesi and Miller in a hard fought, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4 battle on Tuesday. The winning pair, seeded second in the competition, will face the No. 1

KINGSTON Nick Longendyke pitched and batted the Lions to a 7-1 victory over Kiwanis and Chidsey-DeForest made costly errors in the seventh inning to give VFW a 3-1 win in Babe Ruth action Tuesday night.

A four-run outburst in the sixth by the Lions broke things open and Longendyke coasted home with a five-hitter. His triple and Bill Petramale's two singles led the winners balanced attack in which seven players contributed hits.

Joe Kelderhouse picked up the loss for Kiwanis but gained some revenge by reaching Longendyke for a single and double. Third baseman Emil Jordan belted a triple and also started a triple play for the losers.

Val Galm relieved Pete Shultis in the fourth inning and slammed the door on Chidsey the rest of the way, striking out 10. Galm also tripled and scored on a double by Shultis in the third inning to tie the score.

UGLY DUCKLING—South Africa's Pierre Fourie ducks under some punches thrown by Bob Foster in the ninth round of their world light heavyweight championship fight in Albuquerque Tuesday night. Foster retained his title in a 15-round unanimous decision. (UPI)

Foster Carried Fourie After That Racial Slur

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—In Tuesday, but he did apologize and said, "I wouldn't insult a champion."

The South African's manager, Alan Towell, maintained that his fighter had greeted the champion and said, "Tonight's the night, Bobby," and Foster misunderstood the South African's intent.

"I wanted the fight to go 15 rounds. I wanted to punish him," the 34-year-old king of the 175-pounders said after the bout. "Nobody calls me a 'boy' and gets away with it."

Fourie frankly was confused over whether he had called the black champion "boy" when they met at the morning weigh-in over his left eye, an abrasion that required stitches.

Still, there was no doubt the 6-foot-3½ champion dominated his foe, who was four inches shorter and had seven inches less in reach—79 inches to 72.

Referee Jim Cleary and Judge Willis Barnes, both from Foster's home town of Albuquerque, scored the fight 148-120 and 149-130, respectively, while Judge Sydney Beck of Capetown, South Africa, saw it 149-138.

Foster now boasts a 50-6 record while Fourie, unbeaten in 31 previous bouts, is 44-2-1.

No Reprimand For Thomas

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

Duane Thomas won't get any reprimands from the National Football League for his alleged refusal to heed the National Anthem at pre-game ceremonies.

Thomas, the controversial Washington Redskins running back, touched off a controversy last Friday night when he supposedly walked around and turned his back on the flag during pre-game ceremonies at Buffalo's Rich Stadium.

Buffalo fans began shouting at Thomas and after a thermos bottle was thrown at him, he charged the stands and had to be restrained by teammates.

Thomas' pre-game action won't be chastised, however, Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Tuesday.

Addressing a meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in New Orleans, Rozelle said that conduct during the playing of the anthem was up to the individual club to police.

"I think it was an isolated incident," Rozelle said. "In most stadiums in the country, the stands are more removed from the field. Thomas' behavior is the sort of thing for the club to police. We give them guidelines about the National Anthem, behavior by players and coaches and such, but these are policy recommendations and are not mandatory."

Rozelle also said the 1975 Super Bowl might be moved from its scheduled site, the Louisiana Superdome, if the new stadium is not completed. He said it probably would not be transferred to the Tulane University Sugar Bowl Stadium.

"We would like to get into the Superdome as soon as possible and with the rotation system, if New Orleans had the game in 1975, in Tulane Stadium, it would be several years before it could return," he said.

In news from the camps Tuesday, the New Orleans Saints put starting safety Hugo Hollas on the injured reserve list and he'll be out all season and Cincinnati cut punter Ken Duncan and wide receiver Steve Kingman. Houston dropped four players—kicker Mark Williams, linebacker Jim Bishop, offensive lineman Sam Holden and running back Eddie Richardson.

New York Giant Coach Alex Webster and reserve quarterback Randy Johnson jointly announced that Johnson had not asked to be traded after apparently losing his battle to signal Norm Snead as No. 1.

Johnson said he and the club had reached an agreement on his status; and that he would remain the rest of the season.

Miami Coach Don Shula announced that fullback Larry Conka, who has missed all three pre-season games since the Dolphins' opening victory against the College All-Stars, will play against the Los Angeles Rams Friday night.

In other action scheduled for this week, Dallas is at Houston Thursday night and Cincinnati is at Detroit on Friday night. Atlanta takes on Cleveland at Knoxville, Tenn., Oakland plays Minnesota at Berkeley, Calif., Baltimore is at Washington, New England at New Orleans, Philadelphia at San Diego, and the New York Jets at St. Louis on Saturday.

On Sunday, the New York Giants entertain Pittsburgh, Green Bay is at Kansas City, Chicago at Buffalo and Denver at San Francisco.

They Found Dirt in the Soap Box Derby

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—"It's like seeing apple pie, motherhood and the American flag grinded to a halt," a county prosecutor said here today amid continuing ramifications resulting from last Saturday's winner of the All-American Soap Box Derby for cheating.

James Gronen, 14, Boulder, Colo., won the 36th annual event but was later disqualified after Derby officials learned he used an electromagnet to help pull his car from the starting gate.

The electromagnet, according to Derby officials, was discovered through X-ray pictures taken of the racer Monday after starters reported Gronen's car consistently obtained an edge over other racers at the start of various heats.

The X-rays showed the magnet in the nose of the racer's car and an activating switch operated by the boy's helmet. Officials said the magnet was used when the helmet of the driver touched the head of the racer. The magnet, attracted by a large steel plate used to hold racers in position, gave the racer an initial edge over the gravity start of the other contestants. The plate, when the race begins, falls forward and allows the racer to run over it.

Officials said the helmeted driver could then tilt his head forward as the racer started moving, preventing any backward magnetic attraction.

"It was like learning the driver was moving," said Summit County Prosecutor Stephen M. Gabalac, the driver who announced his office's consumer frauds division will investigate the incident. "I am disappointed that this thing ever happened."

Gabalac said his office would determine whether any Ohio laws had been violated in the cheating incident.

"We really want to see whether the winner and his family gained anything of value by cheating," Gabalac said. "We also want to determine whether any felonies such as larceny by trick or obtaining money by false pretenses apply in this situation."

The prosecutor said Gronen could be charged with juvenile delinquency if it is determined he willfully cheated.

"I personally don't think a 14-year-old boy could devise an instrument so intricate as an electromagnet, so we're going to see whether he had outside help in this enterprise."

Local Soap Box Derby officials in Boulder said they were to meet to decide whether to obtain restitution of the $100 awarded Gronen for winning that local race.

"But a $1,500 trip to Akron, how do you get that back?" said Jack Tracy, a Boulder derby official.

Tracy said, however, it was said Gabalac.

"There's always the possibility that the boy didn't know he was breaking the rule," added Tracy. "The kid, as far as I know, is a good kid."

Gabalac said he had no intention of obtaining the 1972 winning car belonging to Gronen's cousin, Robert Lange, also of Boulder, to see if that racer had been altered.

"At this time, we feel the possibility that Lange cheated so remote, we're not considering inspecting his car," said Gabalac.

THE NEW CHAMPION—Bret Allen Yarborough, Elk Grove, Calif., is the new champion of the 1973 All-American Soap Box Derby. He replaces James H. Gronen of Boulder, Colo., who derby officials said Monday had been disqualified because of illegal equipment found in his racer after the weekend's competition in Akron, Ohio. (UPI)

Mayor's Purse To Riva Ridge

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (UPI) — Meadow Stable's Riva Ridge, the 1-5 favorite, scored a driving victory Tuesday at Saratoga in the $15,000 Mayor's Purse.

Prepping for the $250,000 Marlboro Cup on Sept. 15 at Belmont Park in which he is to meet stablemate Secretariat and other top handicap stars, the 1972 Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes winner scored by a half-length.

Cragwood Stable's Halo was second, six lengths in front of Marcel Walder's Rule By Reason.

Alvin Tanenbaum's Ride The Curl was fourth, followed by Mrs. J. Simpson Dean's Holy Land and Alfred G. Vanderbill's Dundee Marmalade. Riva Ridge moved into the lead before going a mile in the 1 1/4 mile race. The 4-year-old son of First Landing-Iberia opened up a four-length lead on the backstretch, then was doing his best at the end to hold off a stretch challenge from Halo.

Carrying top weight of 126 pounds, Riva Ridge was clocked in 1:49 1-5, a second off the track record. The winner paid $2.40, $2.60 and $2.10 in posting his fourth win in six starts this season.

Halo returned $7.40 and $3.00, with Rule By Reason paying $2.20 to show.

Floyd's Boxing Sessions Start at UCC on Sept. 8

STONE RIDGE ended in 1962 when he lost to Sonny Liston.

Patterson's last major fight was a loss to Muhammad Ali last September.

Further information about these courses can be obtained by calling the Office for Continuing Education at the college.

Both sections will begin on Saturday, Sept. 8. One will meet from 8 to 9:40 a.m., while the other will run from 9:50 to 11:30 a.m. They have been scheduled on Saturdays for the convenience of community residents wanting to enroll.

Registration for these courses will be held the nights of Sept. 4 and 5 at the Stone Ridge campus from 6:30 p.m. to 9 o'clock.

Patterson was the youngest fighter ever to win the world heavyweight championship. At the age of 21, he knocked out Archie Moore on Nov. 30, 1956, to claim the title left vacant seventh months earlier by Rocky Marciano's retirement.

In 1959, Patterson lost the crown to Ingemar Johansson, the Swedish boxer, but regained it in a return bout the following year. His reign as champion

Junior Football Loop: More Players Desired

KINGSTON participation by every player on every roster. By every standard, the Exchange Club's Junior Football League was considered a huge success in its second year in 1972. Why then have there been wholesale defections from team rosters?

"I wish we could pinpoint the reasons," says club president James Amendola. "But, I can tell you this, we're going to make some changes."

The changes alluded to by Amendola include a guarantee by the league that every player in uniform must play a minimum number of minutes in each game and guaranteed with seven teams and has scheduled opening games for Sept. 14 for all area kids in the 10-13 year age bracket.

The sign-up locations are: Harvey Semilof, Federal Venetian Blind Corp., 38 O'Neil Street; Joe White, Ulster Golf Center, Sawkill Road, Kingston; and Pete Esposito, 199 Park Lane, Port Ewen.

The Junior Football League is sponsored by the Exchange Club of Greater Kingston, which furnishes all the player equipment and coaching staffs. Practices are held at convenient city park locations in the players' neighborhoods.

PP&K Registering At Johnson-Ford

KINGSTON The 1973 National Finals will be held at the Super Bowl in Houston on Jan. 13. "Naturally, we hope that some of our Ulster County PP&K winners will make it all the way to the finals," Johnson said.

Johnson further explained that each entrant, upon registering, receives a free National Football League. In PP&K Tips Book. In the 1973 edition, there are competition tips by NFL stars Jerrel Wilson, Norm Snead and Chester Marcol plus all-around suggestions from head coaches Don Shula and Dan Devine. The Tips Book also includes PP&K rules and helpful conditioning exercises for contestants.

This is the 13th anniversary year for PP&K. From its inception, the youth activity has been sponsored by the Ford Dealers of America and a free National Football League. In 1973 that time more than 9,350,000 edition, there are competition tips by NFL stars Jerrel Wilson, Norm Snead and Chester Marcol plus all-around suggestions from head coaches Don Shula and Dan Devine. The Tips Book also includes PP&K rules and helpful conditioning exercises for contestants.

Registration for the 1973 Punt, Pass and Kick Competition is now underway in the showrooms of Johnson Ford. In making the announcement, Ross W. Johnson, president of the dealership, said: "We're looking forward to a big local PP&K competition in Kingston on Sept. 29. We hope all youngsters through 13 years of age in this area will come in to register and take part."

PP&K registrations close at Johnson-Ford on Sept. 28. Johnson pointed out that PP&K — throughout its six levels of competition is free of any charge and that the youngsters need only have a parent or guardian accompany them to the showroom to register.

There will be first, second and third place trophies for contestants in each of the six age groups, or 18 trophies in all," said Johnson. "Increasing each entrant's chances of winning is the fact that youngsters compete only against others in their own age group," said the Ford dealer.

The current PGA club Professional Champion will also be among the starters as will be five professionals not otherwise exempt who are leading in TPD official point standings for the current calendar year through the San Antonio-Texas Open, and eight 20 lowest scorers and any tying players, all U.S. citizens, who will be invited by the sponsor.

Catskill Bear Kill Variable Over the Years

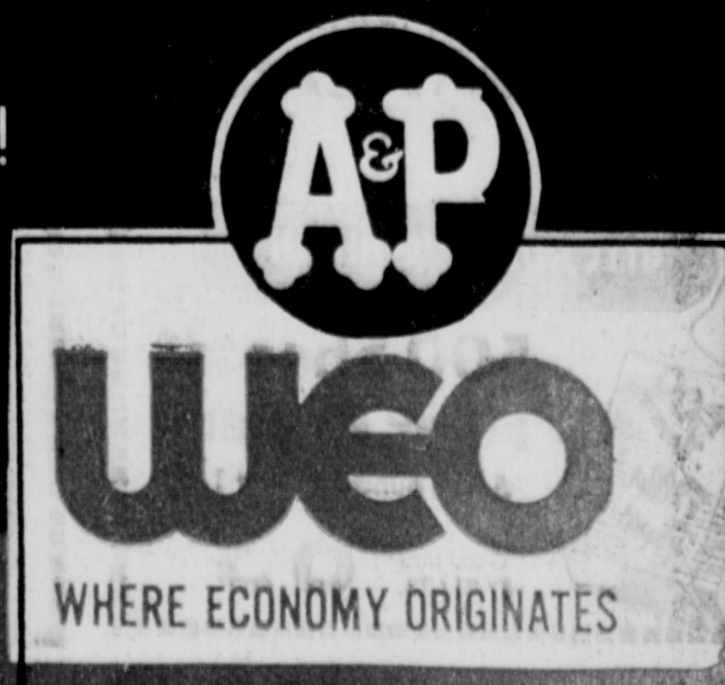

The bear kill in the Catskills. Until a decade ago, the direction during the last three years has been extremely variable with variations of as much as 50 percent not unusual. In part to weather conditions, food availability and hunting pressure. If Catskill female bear exhibit the synchronous biannual breeding behavior which occurs in the Adirondack population, this would account for and further magnify the irregularities in the reported bear kill. The Department has turned a great deal of attention in that bear to the highway.

The telephone reporting system makes it possible for biologists from Big Game Project at the Wildlife Research Laboratory to quickly contact the hunter and arrange an interview while details are still fresh in his mind, and to collect jaws and other needed tissue before they have been discarded. Last year it was possible to get back in the woods, using the hunters' directions, and collect reproductive tracts from among bears in different areas checked for sex, weight physical measurements, parasites, at some Department deer disease and reproductive condition checking stations, front teeth dynamics of a species in a population? 5) What are the given area is vital to its proper ages and sex ratios? What are the kind are invaluable. Some key bears wandering the Catskills have tags in their ears, offering a $25 reward on questions that the biologists the return of their skulls to the hope will be answered by this Department. These bear have information? 3) How many been live trapped and released bears inhabit the Catskills? 2) over the last three years. At How are they distributed? 3) the time of its initial capture What sort of movements occur each bear was anesthetized and Incidentally, the Department has been removing front teeth from bear cold, one of its small teeth was extracted so that its age could be determined. Studies have revealed that a mammal's tooth root continues to grow throughout life, laying down rings just like the rings taken by hunters are seen on the stump of a tree, will give data about growth and in later life these rings are movements that could not be very close together and must be obtained any other way.

Calendar Change At New Paltz

NEW PALTZ

A marked change in the academic calendar is in effect at the State University College at New Paltz for 1973-74, the college administration announced today.

The change places registration before Labor Day, first classes immediately after the holiday, and the end of the term, before Christmas. In previous years a later registration put the final days of classes after the first of the year.

Since the academic calendar affects the pace of local business, the demand for public transportation, and the like, the college has asked the local business community to take note of the change.

Highlights of the new fall calendar are: Aug. 24-31, new entrant orientation; Aug. 27, graduate registration; Aug. 29, undergraduate registration; Aug. 30, new entrant registration; Sept. 4, classes begin; Nov. 22, Thanksgiving recess; Dec. 17-22, final examinations; Dec. 22 end of term.

Bicentennial Emphasis for '73 Program

To take part in the bicentennial era, the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, begins this year a program of emphasis that will carry through the 200th anniversary of the nation in 1976.

The local BSA Council intends to meet the challenge from President Richard M. Nixon for a "new national commitment, the new Spirit for '76 and a spirit which will unite the nation in purpose and dedication to the advancement of human welfare." Council President James F. Dwyer of Woodstock reports.

The 1973 emphasis is on citizenship and is designed to encourage the 4,700 members in this area to become deeply involved in a demonstration of citizenship through service. Program activities will be local unit planned and oriented.

Beginning next September, Dwyer said, the three annual programs of emphasis will be Get Involved for Them (GIFT), Be Prepared for Life and Spirit of '76. The latter program from September 1973 through August 1977 will be three-fold featuring Heritage '76, Festival USA and Horizons '76.

Our commitment to the President and to the American Revolution Bicentennial is to deliver to the nation in 1976 a new generation of prepared young citizens, Dwyer said.

Meanwhile, Scout Executive Robert M. Browning reports that Scouts and Explorers will be in separate divisions for the 1974 Reader's Digest Association — Boy Scouts of America national public speaking contest to be conducted locally this fall.

With the subject, Get Involved for Them, members of troops and posts in Rip Van Winkle Council will represent their units in the council-wide competition to be held in September.

Information about the 1974 contest is available from the Scout service center at 110 Prince Street, Kingston.

Area Scout News

Top Scouts To Be Cited

KINGSTON

Outstanding Scout troops and Cub Scout packs in the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be recognized annually during the next four years for quality unit program, Erwin A. Tate, Saugerties, Council Commissioner, has disclosed.

The National President's BOYPOWER Unit Award will be presented as special recognition to units that meet minimum quality program requirements, Tate explained. The award program, a part of BOYPOWER '76, the long-range plan of the Boy Scouts of America, is based on each of four years from April 1 to March 31.

Similar awards will also be available for Explorer posts and ships that are a part of Exploring Boy Scouts of America in this area.

The award will be received by a Cub Scout pack that earns the National Summer Camp Award; achieves its advancement goal; participates in two or more district or council activities; reregisters on time; and conducts a quarterly uniform review.

Requirements for a Scout troop are 10 days and nights of camping including a long-term camp of 6 consecutive days; achieving its goal for progress awards; participation in 2 or more district or council activities; registration on time; quarterly unit from review; and completion of Cornerstone training by the Scoutmaster.

BOYPOWER '76, which was launched in 1969, calls for the Boy Scouts of America to service by 1976 a representative one-third of boys of all races, colors, creeds, and economic status, Tate said. There is also an emphasis on providing a program relevant to the needs and concerns of youth and to maintain a high level of quality for Boy Scouts of America programs.

TEEN FORUM

MEMORIES: (Q) I went out with Ted for three months. I fell deeply in love with him, but he was very casual about me. This hurt me badly and we discontinued dating.

After that I met Bernie and we both have been very happy together. We have been going together now for six months, and plan to be married in the distant future.

One night Ted saw me out with Bernie. Ever since then he has been calling me and asking for another chance. I tell him it's no use and not to call me again, but he just doesn't get the picture.

This is endangering my future with Bernie. I still have some feelings for Ted, but I have learned to love Bernie now and wouldn't want to lose him over this. I am 19, Bernie is 21. Ted is 24.—One too many in New York.

(A) You seem to be working at loving Bernie. Love is not something you have to work at. It is either there or it isn't.

Do not marry Bernie until you test those feelings you have left for Ted and know beyond a doubt that there is none of that deep love left in them. The reason I say this is that if you now felt only casually about Ted I do not believe you would bother to write me about him.

Do not marry Bernie until you test those feelings you have left for Ted and know beyond a doubt that there is none of that deep love left in them. The reason I say this is that if you now felt only casually about Ted I do not believe you would bother to write me about him.

HORSE: (Q) My sister and I both love horses. The difference is, she has a horse and I don't. She is 15 and I am 13, and when she is out riding her horse I have to stay at home and watch our little sister and brother. I just don't think this is fair. I need help.—Hobbed Virginia.

(A) Your sister is older, and she is beginning to have major privileges and possessions. Your turn is next. These things should come to you when you are her age. When your little brother and sister are older their turn will come.

Your sister SHOULD be doing her share of the chores at home, whether it is watching the children or something else. And your parents SHOULD be planning for you to have a horse or something just as important when you are your sister's age.

Talk to them about all this. Also ask if you can't be permitted to ride the horse occasionally now. I think that would be fair.

In the service of my country, I withstood hours and hours of depth charging, shelling, bombing, but I never expected to run into a Watergate in the service of a President of a United States, and I ran into a buzz-saw obviously.

Cross-fire Over 'Maude'

NEW YORK (AP) — "These are the times that try men's souls," Thomas Paine wrote in 1776. He would have been far more dour had he been a CBS executive, a television station manager or an advertiser.

But then he wasn't involved in the cross-fire between pro-abortion and Right-to-Life groups that attends tonight's repeat episode of "Maude" on the CBS television network.

In this show, she decides to have an abortion. Last Tuesday, Maude learned she was pregnant and discussed abortion. At that time, 39 CBS affiliates refused to carry the show, which had no sponsors.

Before that show, Catholic and anti-abortion groups were attacking CBS for scheduling repeats of the two "Maude" episodes, claiming the shows advocated abortion in the guise of comedy. CBS emphatically denied this.

Last Friday, a coalition of 18 pro-abortion groups held a news conference here to denounce the protesters and praise CBS' courage in repeating the shows. They also said they were starting a national boycott against seven corporations they accused of withdrawing advertising from the two "Maude" shows because of pressure from anti-abortion groups.

"You can't win. We've been getting it from both sides," sighed John Kennedy, president of the Mennen Co. He said his firm cancelled its sponsorship of one repeat show but declined to say why.

The pro-abortion groups identified the companies they were mad at as Mennen, Alberto-Culver, General Mills, American Home Products, J. B. Williams, Persico and Pharmacrast.

Only Pepsi-Cola, a major advertiser of the Persico company, directly attributed its withdrawal to the anti-abortion protests.

A Pepsi spokesman said his company sponsored one of the shows when it first ran in November but pulled its advertising scheduled for the repeat after many protests — he couldn't specify how many.

"Our policy is essentially hands-off in terms of any sort of pre-screening or pre-judgment," he said. But he added that, after the protests, the company felt it'd be best to bow out of the repeats "rather than antagonize all those people all over again."

Officials at Pharmacrast and American Home Products said their planned advertising for episodes — which the company repeats had been cancelled but didn't sponsor — were "definitely a factor, although not the major factor," in the action.

The fourth withdrawing sponsor, J. B. Williams, said its scheduled commercial had been a "make-good" — put in time CBS owed the company — and was withdrawn when the television found out it was the only sponsor.

"It (the withdrawal) had nothing to do with the makeup or the content of the show," a company spokesman said.

A General Mills official said his firm stopped all its ads on "Maude" earlier this year for various reasons. He said the company's increased frankness — a new policy was created.

He said the company tells protesters its policy now is "not to buy time on entertainment programs in which such controversial subjects as drug addiction, deviate sex practices and abortion are treated facetiously or as material for comedy."

Peking Communist Meeting... Heat From Moscow Is Discussed

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

China's Communist leaders have just held some sort of important meeting in Peking, and whatever was on the agenda it's a good bet that fear and suspicion of the Soviet Union is inspiring the regime to get its political house in order.

With Moscow pouring on the heat, Peking probably considers it no longer advisable to continue—as it has for two years—without a defense minister, with gaping holes in upper level of the military establishment, with gaps in the upper party strata and without fixed guidelines for the succession to aged Mao Tse-tung.

All this year the Russians have been carrying on a propaganda campaign against the pragmatists under Premier Chou En-lai, who have been running China. While the Chinese have been answering back, their retorts have seemed less violent than the attacks.

Even while the big meeting was in session in Peking last week, Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet party chief, went out of his way to make serious charges against the Peking regime.

He accused it of a policy "founded on fanatical anti-Sovietism and subversive activity against the socialist countries," and, in fact, of interfering in those countries' affairs.

The Chinese illustrated on Tuesday how aware they are of the possibilities in that attitude. On the fifth anniversary of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, China's United Nations mission circulated a paper entitled, "The longer the occupation, the tighter the noose."

It said Moscow had increased its occupation troops in Czechoslovakia and was still ruthlessly suppressing the Czechoslovak people. Peking has made no secret of its fear that Moscow might try one day to apply that doctrine to China, perhaps with a "surgical" strike against China's developing nuclear weapons system.

Meanwhile, there's a lot of patching to be done. The purges following the downfall of Lin Piao, once successor to Mao Tse-tung, left not only the defense ministry vacant, but also top army and navy posts and key aviation and logistics ones. In the ruling party Politburo, only 13 members remain of the 21 named in 1969, and only half a dozen are really active. The Politburo's inner circle "standing committee" of five now has only three—Mao, Chou and Kang Sheng, Mao, nearing 80, is receding more and more to the background and Kang, 73, has been ailing. That leaves the 75-year-old Chou practically alone in the exercise of political power.

If the party now is preparing to fill the gaps and perhaps ready the National People's Congress that was derailed by the Lin purge, it can be taken as an indication that Chou's people have carried the day against their critics and achieved some political stability. They may now want to move fast, if only because of the Soviet attitude.

Rebel Troops to Avoid Phnom Penh Attack

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Fighting edged closer to Phnom Penh on two sides Tuesday but exiled Cambodian leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk in a report from Peking said his rebel troops will mount no attack on the capital in the near future.

Field reports said rebels, who apparently regrouped and kept out of sight for four days after the Aug. 15 U.S. bomb halt, moved in to shell a government base 10 miles north of Phnom Penh Tuesday and battled Cambodian soldiers seven miles south of the capital.

Monday, the insurgents attacked two provincial capitals and raided scattered government-held towns throughout the country, signaling what military sources said could be the long-awaited insurgent offensive in Cambodia.

But Sihanouk, who met with reporters from Japan's Asahi newspaper in Peking Tuesday, was quoted as saying "an all-front assault on Phnom Penh will be avoided. The next major fighting may occur in the period from December to May," Cambodia's dry season.

Sihanouk heads a Peking-based Government of Royal National Union of Cambodia (GRUNK). Rebel forces loyal to him currently control 70 to 80 per cent of Cambodia and diplomats in the capital have long believed the insurgents could overrun Phnom Penh at any time with the threat of American bombs now erased.

Field reports of Tuesday's fighting near Phnom Penh said rebel gunners shelled the northern government base at Muk Kampoul with 81mm and 60mm mortars, wounding one government troop. The southern fighting, along the Bassac River near Svay Rolum, left six insurgents dead, the reports said.

Fighting also broke out again Tuesday near Kompong Speu, about 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, and at Kompong Cham, 50 miles northeast of the capital. The towns are the provincial capitals that came under rebel attack on Monday.

Military sources said insurgent troops who two weeks ago pushed to within three miles of Phnom Penh are now in positions averaging nine miles from the capital.

106 Dead in Heavy Vietnam Fighting

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese government said today 106 troops on both sides died in the biggest battle since the Jan. 28 cease-fire. Military sources said government soldiers 13 days ago entered Cambodia to fight the rebels there.

Military command spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said 89 Communists were killed at a cost of 17 government rangers dead and 22 wounded Tuesday in fighting about 20 miles northwest of Pleiku in the Central Highlands.

Hien told newsmen the battle "can be considered the biggest" since the Jan. 28 cease-fire. He also said Communist gunners shelled the defense perimeter of Hue Tuesday for the sixth consecutive day.

Military sources said government rangers crossed the border about two miles into Cambodia Aug. 9 and fought a fierce two-hour battle with insurgent troops. The sources said casualties were heavy on both sides but had no specific figures.

Unconfirmed reports have said South Vietnamese troops mostly of Cambodian origin have crossed into Cambodia in large numbers to help in the defense of Phnom Penh, the target of a predicted rebel offensive ever since the U.S. bomb halt took effect in Cambodia a week ago.

South Vietnamese troops, however, make frequent short forays into Cambodia to attack Communist troops using the border area as a staging ground for assaults into Vietnam.

The Saigon government has repeatedly said it could consider any request for troop reinforcements from the Phnom Penh regime but that no such request has ever been made.

In the Hue shelling, a government spokesman said Communist gunners fired 130 mortar rounds and eight 122mm rockets into South Vietnamese infantry positions about 12 miles southwest of the old imperial capital 400 miles north of Saigon. One infantryman was reported wounded.

Hien said in other Highlands fighting Tuesday, 20 Communists were killed and one government infantryman wounded when guerrilla troops attacked two government units about six miles west of Kontum, 260 miles north of Saigon. He said the attack was repulsed.

Chile Braces for More Violence

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Residents of Chile's strike-plagued capital braced for more violence today between opponents and supporters of their leftist government.

Winter school vacations, scheduled to end today, were extended indefinitely after a five-hour battle Tuesday between thousands of foes and supporters of Marxist President Salvador Allende.

Officials said 13 persons were hospitalized, five with bullet wounds and eight from other injuries. Two were reported in critical condition. But there was no confirmation that two persons were killed by snipers firing from the roofs of office buildings around the supreme court building.

Water cannon trucks and riot police using shields struggled through the afternoon to disperse mobs of jeering youths that formed at intersections throughout the heart of the city. They set several cars afire and burned heaps of garbage in the streets.

As the rioting tapered off at dusk, more than 2,000 pro-government women and youths massed in front of the presidential palace, shouting "Power to the people!" and "We will fight! We will win!"

Allende appeared on a second-floor balcony and told the cheering crowd: "We will defend Chile from the fascists and those who want a civil war."

Meanwhile, several hundred antigovernment women stoned the home of Gen. Carlos Prats, the army commander-in-chief and defense minister. Police drove them off with tear gas, and two women were treated at a military hospital for minor injuries.

Economy Minister Jose Cede-martori said that the 48-hour strike that the nation's shop owners began Tuesday was se-ditionous. He warned that the government has prepared an emergency plan that it would apply "at the opportune moment to safeguard commerce and the consumers." He did not elaborate, but presumably he was warning against an extension of the strike.

The shopkeepers of the Merchants' Confederation closed down to show sympathy for the strike by the nation's private truckers, now in its 28th day. The shopkeepers also claim that the government is diverting commodities from them to state stores to advance Allende's socialist program.

Bus and taxi drivers, doctors, professional workers and employees of the national airline also are on strike against the government.
